City Asks State Aid For Point

Kingston Is First To List Park Play

An informal application blank for state aid in developing a Kingston Point Park site was obtained Tuesday at Albany, Mayor Edwin F. Radel said today, and is due to be completed for an early return to state officials.

Mayor Radel and City Treasurer Orrie R. Riehl conferred yesterday in Albany with state parks department officials.

Mayor Encouraged

"I feel that the trip to Albany was a most fruitful one," the mayor said upon returning here." He also said he felt that his efforts in behalf of a park program, both as alderman and mayor "were an important preparation and experience" and were helpful at the Albany session.

A state-aided park project on a tract owned by New York City in the Ashokan area, has also been proposed, but details pertinent to the Kingston project, at this date, are further advanced. A state legislative act might be required for transfer of this land in the Catskills.

An Albany report Monday said the State Conservation Department expects that $75,000,000 to be raised by a bond issue approved in the Nov. 8 election, will be obligated in purchases of new recreation areas in three years.

Finance Arrangement

Purchases of site will be financed by use of 75 per cent state money and 25 per cent local. More parks are proposed for areas within a 50 mile radius of New York City, the upper Hudson and Mohawk vallies. The Monday report emphasized that "The greatest need is in the Catskills, which are accessible to the New York City metropolitan area."

Mayor Radel said he was mentioned Monday in Albany as a 'pioneer" in his move to obtain state aid for a city park. The meeting was arranged through State Conservation Commissioner Harold G. Wilm upon request of the mayor. Kingston, it was indicated, was the first city in the state to give notice of its intention to participate in the program.

Have Data Along

The mayor and city treasurer met with William D. Mulholland and L. L. Huttleston, of the parks department. The local officials brought with them maps, charts, aerial photos, and topographical drawings.

The city has received indication that land required for the Kingston Point park could be purchased from the New York Central Railroad and from Bernard Wolper, of New York. The former owns land along the waterfront and adjacent to a spur which terminated at the former boat house. The latter owns the tract which many years ago was used as a park.

THE KINGSTON PATROLMEN'S ASSOCIATION contributes $250 to the Kingston Area Community Chest's 1961 Appeal. This represents a 13 per cent increase over last year's gift from the Association. Emergency Moves to Be Aired

Overseas Outlay Is Ordered Cut

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — President Eisenhower today called a meeting of the nation's top National Security Council apparently to discuss emergency moves to halt the drain on American gold and dollar resources.

Military, foreign policy and financial leaders of the Eisenhower administration were told to fly to the President's Georgia vacation headquarters for a conference Thursday.

Nixon to Miss Session

Vice President Richard M. Nixon, resting in Florida from the political campaign, was to be the only administration leader missing from the roster of NSC advisers.

Central Intelligence Agency Director Allen W. Dulles and Gen. Lyman Lemnitzer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, were due to join Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, Treasury Secretary Robert B. Anderson and Defense Secretary Thomas S. Gates Jr. at the meeting.

Sound Dollar His Goal

Striving for his cherished goal of a sound dollar, Eisenhower Tuesday ordered government agencies to adopt emergency moves to cut down the amount of money they spend overseas.

His action — only 64 days before he leaves the White House — will put President-elect John F. Kennedy's Democratic regime in better position to weather a financial storm which has seriously worried the Republican administration in the last two years.

Out to Close Gap

The President's move was aimed mainly at helping the government close the gap between the amount of money it spends and earns overseas.

This deficit, now running at a near-record rate of 4.3 billion a year, has drained American gold reserves and shaken the prestige of the dollar in international money marts.

To help solve this continuing problem, Eisenhower also paved the way for the Kennedy administration to get financial help from Allied countries on these two fronts:

Referendum at Proper Time

DeGaulle to Ask Vote For New Algeria Rule

PARIS (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle told his Cabinet today he intends to call upon the nation to approve in a referendum a new administrative organization for Algeria.

The new administration is to be created to rule until Algerians by a vote determine their own future.

The referendum in France and Algeria, De Gaulle told the Cabinet, will be called at the proper time.

Stirs Up Opposition

In a speech on Nov. 4 De Gaulle spoke of the possibility of a referendum but did not commit himself to it. In the same speech he said a new Algeria will be administered by the Algerians themselves at every level of government.

The new policy, introducing the possibility of an Algerian republic, has stirred up right-wing opposition, especially among veterans and Europeans in Algeria.

Several thousand youths rioted in Algiers for several hours last Friday on Armistice Day pelting police with stones, tomatoes and other missiles. Fifty persons were injured.

Mounting Tension

Government authorities in Algiers met mounting tension today by arresting several rightist leaders and banning distribution of today's issues of two Paris newspapers.

Those arrested included a municipal councillor, known for his determined advocacy of an Algeria united to France, and the president of a local political group that follows Pierre Poujade, the French anti-tax firebrand.

The newspapers seized were France-Soir and Paris Presse. One of the papers quoted a military chaplain's funeral sermon to a soldier audience in which the chaplain said, "You have fallen on days when you no longer know the reasons for which you are asked to die."

About 500,000 troops have been trying to put down a nationalist rebellion which has been going on for more than six years.

Cedar Grove 72nd Company to Join County Fire Assn.

One new fire company was admitted to membership in the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association at the November meeting at West Hurley Tuesday night. Cedar Grove Fire Company, Inc., located on the Saugerties-Woodstock road makes the 72nd company in the association.

John Ludlow Jr., of Ellenville, a member of Pioneer Engine Company, was named a director for five years succeeding Adam Ulrich who resigned when he took up residence in Florida.

150 Members Present

In the absence of the president, George Ohley, second vice president, of Saugerties, presided at the meeting which was guest of the West Hurley Fire Company. There were 35 companies represented by the 150 members present.

It was voted to buy a $10 Christmas seal bond.

The legislative committee which met in Albany, reported 22 bills had been presented and discussed and 12 out of the bills were approved and the balance were referred to the law committee.

Arnold Talks on CD

Charles Arnold, assistant Civil Defense director for Ulster County, was the main speaker. He presented Civil Defense matters pertaining to volunteer firemen activities and participated in a question period.

Former Kingston Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy was present and spoke on purchase of fire equipment.

The January meeting will be held at Ulster Hose Company No. 5 fire house, Albany Avenue extension, on January 17.

Water Complaint Answer: No Main On Brook Street

Lack of city water service on Brook Street is cited in letters sent recently to the State Public Service Commission, Mayor Edwin F. Radel and the local water board by Mrs. Alonzo Clearwater, of Brook Street.

An inquiry at the water department office revealed that the street has no main conduit, but a privately installed pipeline had been in service there. Nearest mains are on South Wall and Chapel Streets.

Mrs. Clearwater, who said the

Will Discuss School Board Candidates

Formation of a non-partisan nominating committee for selection of candidates for the board of education of Kingston School District (Consolidated) will be discussed at a meeting this evening in the George Washington School.

The public is cordially invited and urged to attend the panel discussion which will be held in the cafeteria at 8 p. m.

Members of Panel

Members of the panel will be Dr. Robert W. Pyle, dean of the State University College of Education, New Paltz; Hugh Davies of Peekskill, vice president of the New York State School Boards Association; Edward M. Gardner of Ardsley, a former member of the Parent-Teacher Association executive board in that Westchester county community; Mrs. James J. Cawston of Sawkill road, a teacher in the Onteora Central School District, and Mrs. Benjamin Chipman of 20 Manor Place, a teacher in the field of speech therapy, chairman of the committee in charge of the discussion tonight.

The panel is sponsored by the Kingston Branch, American Association of University Women.

Mrs. Cawston has an AB degree from Smith College and a Master's degree from the State University College of Education, New Paltz and is teaching the fourth grade at Onteora. She is a past president of the local AAUW and a past president of the Ulster County Teachers Association. Mrs. Cawston has three children. One daughter is a sophomore at the State University of Education, New Paltz, another a freshman at Wilson College.

Is Teacher, Writer

Mrs. Chipman, who will serve as moderator of the panel, has a Master's degree from Columbia University in speech therapy and has done graduate work at New York University and the State University College of Education, New Paltz, in the field of elementary education. She has taught for a number of years in Washington, D. C., Kingston Public Schools and the Saugerties Central School District. She is the author of a text book in the field of speech therapy. She has a daughter, Gail, a student in the Myron J. Michael School.

Mrs. Chipman said today that the AAUW hopes the establishment of a non-partisan nominating committee will be an important factor in "upgrading the quality of education in the Kingston School District (Con-

City Plans Forum Set For Nov. 29

A committee was named at the monthly meeting Tuesday by the board of directors, Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce, to arrange a forum on city planning. Chamber President Norman L. McLeod announced today that the forum date is Tuesday, Nov. 29, and the chairman is Harry Rigby Jr.

Two membership applications were approved—Acme Tire Co., Inc., Albany Avenue Extension, represented by Louis Pomerantz, and Winans Men's Shop, Inc., 302 Wall Street. A third application received will be acted upon at the next meeting.

Office to Move

It was announced that the Chamber is removing its office to the opposite end of the Governor Clinton Hotel building for more space, and that the barber shop there will go to the present office.

The board of education has approved plans, it was announced, for an Education-Business Day in February, when businessmen will visit the schools nights.

Albert E. Trowbridge, president of the Kingston Junior Chamber of Commerce, an ex-officio director of the CC, said the 1961 Miss New York State Pageant is to be held here in early July.

The Jaycee Urban Planning Committee will attend the city planning forum on November 29.

A great deal of enthusiasm was expressed over the recent announced progress toward the elimination of the Washington Avenue viaduct. The previous stand taken by the Chamber, which strongly urged that the viaduct elimination plans include a provision for traffic maintenance during the construction period, was re-affirmed. The hope was expressed that the present narrow iron bridge over the Esopus Creek could be used for traffic during construction of the proposed new four lane bridge.

The opinion was expressed that a serious traffic situation would result if all Route 209 and Rout 32 traffic, from the south, had to find its way to and over the new arterial route on its way to the Thruway and Route 28. In addition, the directors believe, very serious economic hardship would result if traffic were shut off for a year or two in the Washington Avenue viaduct area.

The next meeting of the Chamber board of directors will take place on Dec. 13.

Mrs. Doyle Remains Critical

Troopers, DA Awaiting Clothes Tests Results

Authorities today were closely watching the condition of Mrs. Matilda Doyle, who, they say was beaten and allegedly raped in her Whiteport home Saturday night, and awaiting results of tests from the State Police crime laboratory in attempt to learn the identity of the woman's assailant.

Reports from Kingston Hospital were that Mrs. Doyle's condition worsened and she remains in critical condition. There appeared to be a variance in the age of the victim of the assault. Reports from Whiteport said she is in her 80's, while early police reports listed her age as 71.

Awaiting Reports

District Attorney Raymond J. Mino confirmed a report that his office is watching developments and is in constant communication with Kingston troopers investigating the case. Mino said his office is awaiting reports of tests now under way at the state crime laboratory of clothing worn by Mrs. Doyle at the time of the assault and clothes worn by Cameron F. Page, 27, RD 27, Box 245A, Kingston (Dewitt Mills Road).

Page, a former Marine and an employe of the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp., assigned to a pole-setting crew, was found writhing in pain about 50 feet from the Doyle residence Saturday night. Troopers said Page told them he was injured while running to Mrs. Doyle's assistance after hearing her screaming for help. He is in Kingston Hospital with a broken leg.

Previews Burglary

State Police Corporal Edward Shannon, of the Kingston BCI, who is investigating with Trooper Charles Teelon, said that three weeks prior to the Saturday night assault, the Doyle residence was burglarized. He said Mrs. Doyle and relatives left the house to attend a social function in Kingston and on their return to the Whiteport residence they discovered someone had pried open the back door and ransacked luggage.

Shannon said apparently nothing of value was taken during the burglary although some money, a transistor radio and other articles of value were in clear view of the intruder.

Talked Briefly

Troopers reported today they had received no report from the state crime laboratory. Shannon said Mrs. Doyle was able to engage in a brief conversation with troopers after she was found brutally beaten. Details of the

Shopping Center Ready by April, Woolworth Plans

While the owners of the Kraus farm on Albany Avenue extension north of Kingston contend "nothing definite" has been consummated for a shopping center on the 9-acre tract, indications are that a proposed shopping center may become a reality within the next few months.

The F. W. Woolworth Co., according to Andrew J. Kozak, manager of the Woolworth Store on Wall Street, has become sufficiently interested in the proposed shopping center to prepare preliminary plans for a store on the site.

Confirms Reports

Kozak today confirmed reports that the home office has prepared sketches for a store of some 30,000 square feet and it is reported that Food Fair, a supermarket chain which operates stores in the North Jersey area, is also interested.

The tentative plans call for a center to house 13 stores in addition to the Woolworth store. Plans indicate seven stores on the southerly end of the shopping center and six additional

Greenglass Out, Helped to Send Sister to Chair

NEW YORK (AP) — David Greenglass, the convicted atom bomb spy who helped send his sister and her husband to the electric chair, went free today after 9½ years in prison.

The short, meek-appearing man emerged at 8:35 a. m. from the federal house of detention. He was accompanied by his attorney, O. John Rogge, who ruled out any statement.

Crowd Is Hostile

Greenglass appeared terrified as he confronted 60 newsmen and photographers and heard derogatory shouts from longshoremen and truckers attracted to the scene.

"Drop dead, you lousy Communist," a voice in the hostile crowd yelled as Greenglass got into a taxicab and left for an undisclosed destination.

Someone else directed the cabbie, "Drive him off the pier, right into the river, the dirty rat."

Greenglass accepted the slurs in silence.

Greenglass, now 38, was sentenced to 15 years in prison in 1951 for his part in the spy plot. He got time off for good behavior.

He served his term in the Federal Penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa., and was transferred to the Federal House of Detention here last weekend to facilitate his release.

Mum on Future

What are his plans? Does he have a job? No one is saying.

It was Greenglass' testimony that helped send his brother-in-law, Julius Rosenberg, and his sister, Ethel Rosenberg, to the Sing Sing Prison death chair.

Greenglass, a former Brooklyn machinist and U. S. Army technician, pleaded guilty for his part in the theft of U. S. atomic secrets, which were passed on to the Soviets. He was the govern-

Await Kennedy's View

U. S. Proposes Own Nuclear Force

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State and Defense departments were reported substantially agreed today that the United States should provide the North Atlantic Alliance with its own strategic nuclear striking force.

In spite of this development of policy within the Eisenhower administration, high officials are uncertain what position the United States can take on the problem at a ministerial meeting of the NATO Council in Paris next month.

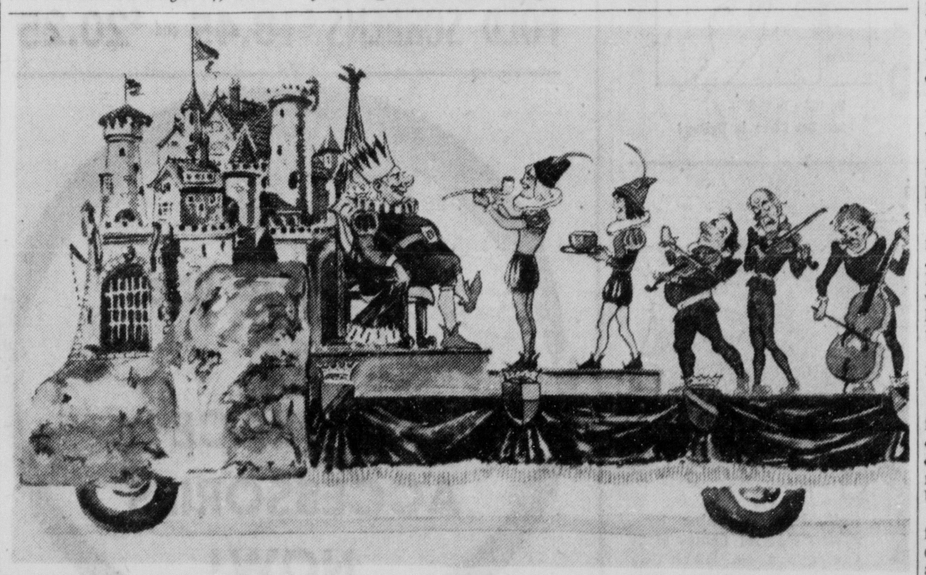

Any decisions which are made now on such a long-range undertaking would have to be carried out by the next administration. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and others here therefore are awaiting for some indication of views from President-elect John F. Kennedy before determining finally the line they will take at the council meeting.

The basic idea behind the strategic nuclear force for NATO is to provide this country's European allies with nuclear weapons which would be committed primarily to their own defense.

Nuclear rockets are already stationed on Allied territory in the European area but they are subject to joint control of the United States and the nation on whose territory they are based.

One plan which has been talked about both here and with Allied governments would provide for placing a force of Polaris submarines under the direct control of the supreme allied commander of NATO for Europe. Throughout NATO's 12-year history the supreme commander has been an American officer; at present it is Gen. Lauris Norstad. The expectation is that an American will continue to hold this assignment.

Although Kennedy's views on the problem will be sought as soon as possible, he may want to express an opinion until after he has selected the men who will be his secretary of state and secretary of defense.

OLD KING COLE—One of the floats in the big Children's "Fairy Tale" Christmas parade here Saturday morning will be "Old King Cole and his Fiddlers Three," shown above. There will be 32 huge balloon figures and floats all depicting famous fairy tale characters. The parade starts at 9:30 a. m. from the Dietz Memorial Stadium and ends in the Rondout section. Oh yes! Santa will be there riding on a big fire engine.

State Showdown Seen

Wagner to Press for Off-Track Bets

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York City says he plans to press the 1961 Legislature for a showdown on legalizing off-track betting.

He made the statement in New York City Tuesday as the first bills were thrown into the 1961 legislative hopper here, among them three New York City-sponsored proposals to legalize off-track betting.

The three proposals were prefiled by Senate Minority Leader Joseph Zaretzski and Assembly Minority Leader Anthony J. Travia, Democratic spokesmen in the Republican - controlled Legislature.

An off-track betting measure failed in the 1960 Legislature.

Most of the pressure for legalizing off-track betting has come from New York City. Some isolated sentiment for the plan has been expressed by Upstate residents but most legislators from conservative Upstate are strongly against it.

Three alternatives are being offered, Wagner said, because "we do not want the question shelved again on the ground that, while the program is good, the suggested procedure is wrong."

These are the alternatives:

1. Any city, town or village in the state could permit off-track betting by local law, after a referendum.

2. New York City alone could permit it, after a referendum.

3. New York City could pass its own permissive law, without a referendum.

Last year's measure was similar to the second alternative introduced yesterday.

The New York mayor said it would be just as moral for New York City "to relieve its citizens of $100 million a year in nuisance taxes or higher taxes" as it as for the state "to net $90 million to finance its government—and I see no Republican legislators offering to discontinue this revenue source..."

Wagner explained that the city planned to levy the same service charge on bets that race tracks assess. He said the state would net about $90 million from the track tax this year.

Wagner said the contemplated revenue would reduce or eliminate some taxes in the city.

Other bills, of a minor nature, also were being processed for the start of the legislative session.

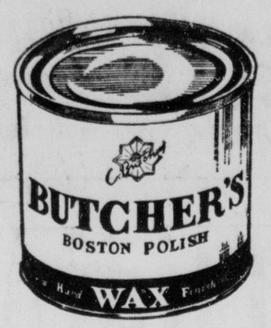

Most major bills are introduced after the session opens in January.

Prefiling was inaugurated a few years ago to speed the legislative process.

Research Reports Focus on Health

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Murder, age, suicide, and hot weather diets are topics this week with a focus on health.

The Sudden Murderers

The sudden murderers who kill without apparent reason usually have abnormal brain activity, British researchers report.

They charted the electrical activity in the brains of known murderers in English prisons. Among those who murdered while trying to commit some other crime, one in four showed brain abnormalities—roughly the same as other prisoners.

Among those who killed after considerable personal provocation, only 17 per cent showed abnormal. But in those who murdered without motive or provocation except for the stress of sexual excitement, resentment or exhaustion, 73 per cent had brain abnormalities.

Hot Weather Eaters

The hotter it is the more you need to eat, Army researchers report.

Men living in 105 degree desert heat ate some 400 calories more per day than did men living in air-conditioned comfort. They also gained weight, probably due to drinking more water.

The hot weather eaters needed more food for several reasons: Increased blood flow to aid the body's adjustment to the heat, greater sweat gland activity and the loss of calories due to sweat loss.

Child Suicides

Under the age of 15, suicide is a minor cause of death. But thereafter it becomes more and more important as a killer, a new study shows.

Discipline, emotional upset, depression, jealousy, school and family problems were the most frequent reasons for attempted suicides. Lesser reasons: Drug addiction and the birth of an illegitimate child. The highest number of attempts came at the age of 18.

Parents should watch for a sudden change in personality or behavior, anxiety, irritability, depression, insomnia and frequent but unnecessary outbursts of temper.

RX Daffodils

U.S. studies of a Soviet-discovered drug are yielding a whole family of new compounds that hold hope for persons suffering from nerve-muscle diseases like myasthenia gravis.

The drugs stem from the bulbs of a plant related to the daffodil, which grows in abundance all over the world. Doctors may soon try out one of the compounds on human patients.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The Soviet Union is devaluing its ruble in terms of its theoretical gold content. This is bringing it close to what the rest of the world all along has thought it was worth—about one-fourth of what the Kremlin has pretended it was worth.

Since the Soviet Union conducts most of its trade with the non-Communist nations in the form of barter anyway, the change over to the new "heavy ruble" Jan. 1 will be largely one of bookkeeping without much apparent practical effect.

In international politics, the U.S.S.R. is hoping to make the world think that its new ruble is worth more than the American dollar. Few businessmen—whether American or foreigners—will buy that propaganda.

They can't take rubles out of the Soviet Union. They can't convert them into gold—whether they be the present rubles or the new ones which strictly at home will be worth 10 of the old rubles. Businessmen aren't allowed to convert rubles freely into the currency of their own lands.

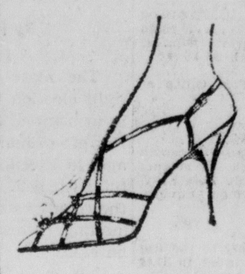

Business transactions of the Soviet Union with the Western world will still be strictly on a barter basis. Example: The U.S.S.R. trades Cuba so much oil and machinery in exchange for so much sugar. And if the U.S.S.R. grants ruble credits to nations in Africa and Asia they must use the rubles to buy Soviet machinery or technical aid.

In gold, the new Soviet move means simply that the heavy ruble is said to be worth some four times as much as the present one—that is, 0.98 grams of gold for the new one against 0.22 grams for the old. Only, just try to get the gold.

Stripped of the usual Communist hocus-pocus, this is devaluation. It is like the talk of the devaluation of the dollar which stirred Europe a few weeks back to pay premium prices for gold. The United States was supposed to cut the value of the dollar by raising the price of gold, now $35 an ounce. The United States didn't and no one seriously expects it to. If it ever should it would be devaluing the dollar.

The U.S.S.R. is raising its price for gold—thus doing the devaluation of the ruble, while the United States isn't devaluing the dollar.

In the Soviet Union itself, the changeover simply means that a Russian can turn in 10 of his old rubles and get a single new one. That's roughly similar to what France did a while back when it wanted to lop some of the top-heavy zeros off its paper francs.

TO SPEED UP VOTING

There was such a tremendous electoral outpouring this time that it was not at all uncommon, in more populous areas, for voters to stand in line an hour and a half or so before voting. Given such an outpouring in the future, there are only two ways of avoiding similar delays. One is to improve balloting facilities; the other is to persuade voters to do their homework so that when they get to the polls they can vote quickly and make way for the next person.

The problem is most aggravated in large communities, many of which now use voting machines. In their case, a simple though expensive remedy is to buy more voting machines. The cost of this may be prohibitive, since the maximum number of voting machines may be needed only in presidential years. Where voting machines are not used, the problem may be solved by adding to personnel and booths at the polling places.

There is at least one other possibility which merits serious attention. This is to make something similar to the absentee ballot procedure available to all who want to take advantage of it. Under such a system, voters would have a choice of turning in their ballot under those conditions at their own convenience, or going to the polls on Election Day. The notion takes some getting used to. But it should be mulled over as a possible means of reducing delays in the electoral process.

The best method of doing that, obviously, would be to convince all voters that they ought to go to the polling place with their minds made up on all issues and candidates so that they could vote promptly. That may be like asking for the millenium. In the meantime, other speed-up methods must also be employed.

THE STATISTICAL VIEW

The United States is so big and populous and rich that almost any statistics about it tend to be overwhelming, if not downright stupefying. This profound thought is prompted by a report that Americans are expected to exchange about a billion and a half Christmas presents during the coming jolly Yuletide, and that these will cost an estimated $7,350,000,000.

A billion and a half presents costing substantially more than seven billion dollars—an exchange sufficiently astonishing to leave even the three wise men a bit goggle-eyed. If one gets to thinking of the variety of gifts, the enormous range from tie clasp to limousine and hankie to ermine wrap, the statistics begin to seem even more awesome. One even senses in some degree the pre-Yuletide feelings of Papa, who knows that he will foot most of the bill for all this generosity.

POLARIS AGREEMENT

As a cornerstone in the free world's system of air defense, the British Isles have been known for a decade as the West's "unsinkable aircraft carrier." Now Great Britain accepts further responsibility in acting as a forward base for Polaris submarines. On the brink of being operational, nuclear submarines armed with nuclear missiles will henceforth be based on Scotland's River Clyde.

The Polaris submarine brings to the arsenal of the West a new weapon of unsurpassed striking power. The continent's military posture will be enormously strengthened by having these undersea craft based in Europe. This does not alter the fact that, politically, the British government has been placed in a difficult position by making room for the Polaris.

In agreeing to depot these vessels, which will remain a part of the United States Navy, the British share responsibility for their actions with no more than advisory control over those actions. This has opened the Macmillan government to sharp attack from Labor, especially since Washington contradicted Macmillan's early statement that the submarines would be sent into action only after the fullest consultation with Her Majesty's government.

The Labor opposition has been and will doubtless continue to be highly vocal. This should not be allowed to obscure the popular sentiments of the British people. A large majority of them, it seems clear, firmly support the Anglo-American alliance and are only too glad that America's military might is pledged to protect the British Isles. Both Americans and Britons should see in the Polaris agreement further evidence of a common determination to defend freedom.

'These Days'

IT COST TOO MUCH

The most impressive fact about the recent tight election was that it cost too much in time, in money and in human energy. As for time, from the pre-primary effort, which started two years ago, to Election Day, men who should have been fully engaged at their work, were chasing about the country seeking delegations, making deals, exhibiting themselves in the hope that they might be elected.

No one will ever know, not even the candidates, what the election actually cost. There will be formal reports but these will represent only a small share of the total. In the first place, there are all sorts of separate organizations and committees with which the candidates have little contact. These organizations are usually devised to make it possible for those who wish to contribute large sums to split them up. Also, there is much handling of cash money under the table. This can never be proved and that is why it is done that way.

There are always men who contribute to both parties and to a variety of candidates and committees. By this device, they make their way to Heaven no matter who is elected. (I am, of course, not limiting this discussion to Presidential candidates.)

There ought to be a law, such as the British have, limiting campaign expenditutes. It is not significant if the law limits campaign income, because much of that can never be proved. For instance, labor unions can contribute to a campaign out of educational funds and labor unions do not need to account for their contributions as political. But expenditures can be found. The largest bills are for television and travel. These can be accounted for. If a rigid, inflexible figure were made law and an over-expenditure made a felony, the election could become honest. Certainly, as it is, no man who does not have access to unusually enormous sums of money can be elected to the Presidency.

The time to discuss this is now when nobody is running for office and when no partisanship is involved. Even the reported figures for this election, when they shall be published, will be disgraceful and should be thoroughly investigated. The Roman Empire collapsed when public office went to the highest bidder. We do not want to reach that estate here.

As for time, it would seem that one month of campaigning is enough, if not too much. Only the television companies gain by prolonged campaigning and they only gain if they can sell non-sponsored time to a large number of stations. Otherwise, the prolonged campaign benefits nobody and is, in fact, a bore. After the first three or four speeches, it is all repetitious. It got so that I could make the Nixon and Kennedy speeches by heart. The candidates themselves must have been bored by the repetition of the same slogans, the identical run of words, none of them meaning very much but all of which had to be said with vehemence and vigor.

It would seem to me if the campaign were cut down to one month by law, all candidates would be exultant. They would perhaps have the time to write their own speeches and even to think about what they say. They would say what they mean. They would not be reading documents which they had never seen before, written by persons who had, on their own account, achieved slight or no distinction as public figures or philosophers. Most speech-writers are inexpert persons on the fringe of public relations or in the professional disciplines. Most of them never achieve any stature and have only memories of "making other men."

A month of speech-making is ample. I think that if there were a week of silence just before Election Day, it would be very beneficial. The people could then make up their minds without the cacophony of political speeches. They might sit back and read what had been said. They might analyze what had been said. They might read the Party Platforms or they might do nothing about it at all, depending upon their subconscious to guide them a-right.

Surely that would be better than the present preposterous method when the candidates talk so much that they drown in a sea of words.

Blood Clot Is the Danger In a Phlebitis Condition

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

A medical condition whose significance is too often underestimated is phlebitis (flea-bite-is). In phlebitis, the wall of a vein becomes inflamed. It thus differs from the varicose vein which is merely a vessel that has become enlarged and zigzagy. That does not mean that the two conditions may not co-exist. Indeed the varicose vein is more likely to become phlebitic than the normal vessel.

Now the danger in an attack of phlebitis is in organs far from the site of the inflammatory process. Particularly the lungs!

Let me explain how this comes about.

Blood tends to clot on the inflamed wall. This clot, within the hollow or lumen of the vein, extends in all directions as each bit of clot invites within the vein's lumen, the clot advances in the more clot. Since the flow of blood is constant direction of the current. That is toward the larger veins that carry blood back to the heart.

In the event that a fragment of a clot is loosened by the force of flow, it floats in the blood stream to the heart. There it is forced out with the thrust (systole) of the next heart beat after which it enters one of the great arteries that carries blood from the heart to the various organs of the body. Most often, it is the artery that transports blood to the lungs (pulmonary).

As the branches of the pulmonary artery become progressively smaller with progressive narrowing of the lumen, the clot eventually gets to one through which it cannot pass. When it plugs this vessel, it is known as an embolus. And the embolized area that depends on this vessel for its nutrition is in serious difficulties unless it can manage to satisfy its needs with blood diverted from surrounding areas (collateral circulation). However, should the collateral circulation fail, the tissue cannot survive. And the starved area, usually triangular in shape, is described as infarcted (plugged off).

In another column, I'll tell you of successful efforts to prevent phlebitis and greatly lessen the dangers of embolization and infarction.

"We Said It'd Be Close"

Washington News

By PETER EDSON
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — It had been touch and go all during the campaign whether president-elect John F. Kennedy's choice of Texas Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson as his vice presidential running mate would turn out to be a horrible mistake or the most brilliant political move of the year. The election result has given the latter answer, for the present at least.

THERE HAS BEEN MUCH SPECULATION on how and why Kennedy made this surprising choice. The night before Kennedy's own nomination at Los Angeles, it was generally understood that Sen. Stuart Symington would be the vice presidential candidate.

This was not denied at Kennedy headquarters. The Symington people were happy about it. What happened to spoil the pretty picture was simple arithmetic.

In convention balloting for the presidential nomination, Kennedy got 806 votes, Johnson 409, Symington 86 and Stevenson 79. Johnson was obviously strongest of the three.

Kennedy also realized he had an extremely liberal platform to run on. It was highly objectionable to Democratic conservatives, particularly in the South. Kennedy's religion was also a handicap in the predominantly Protestant South.

Only a southerner, backed by the southern governors and other conservative Democratic leaders could overcome those handicaps. Johnson had that backing and so became the man for the job.

There was one other factor not immediately apparent. In the August special session of Congress, Johnson was Senate majority leader and Rep. Sam Rayburn speaker of the House.

If the two Texans had desired to sabotage the Democratic platform and Kennedy — the young upstart who had defeated them in open convention battle —they could have done it by sitting on their hands.

The special session was unproductive, but this wasn't Kennedy's or Johnson's and Rayburn's fault. It was the conservative Democrats ganging up with the Republicans to thwart them.

JOHNSON HAD TO MAKE considerable personal readjustment to take second place on the ticket with Kennedy.

Johnson had consistently insisted he wouldn't take it. But he made the switch in a hurry after the southern governors advised him to take it and after Kennedy assured Johnson he could have the vice presidency without a floor fight.

Immediately after Johnson made the decision that taking the vice presidency on a platter was better than going back to Texas empty-handed, he told his top advisers and campaign managers that he wasn't going into this in any halfhearted way.

He asked Kennedy to tell his people the same thing. Their heated exchanges of the primary were to be forgotten. They were to start fresh, working together.

Johnson has lived up to this. He has campaigned harder than most vice presidents do, hitting over 40 states and working closely with Kennedy.

ONE REASON GIVEN for the emergence of Johnson as a Kennedy supporter is that he wants to be a national leader, not just a Texas leader or a regional southern leader.

Before the election, Texas writers reported that Johnson took the vice presidential nomination so that he would be in favored position as Democratic candidate for President in 1964, should Kennedy be defeated in 1960.

Now, barring misfortune befalling president-elect Kennedy, Johnson would have to wait until 1968 to run for the presidency. He would then be 60, which isn't too old.

Kennedy-Nixon Talk Held Politics in Its Best Sense

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 — Why did President-elect Kennedy take the initiative and pay a visit to Vice-President Nixon? It was a good move but lots of people are inquiring as to its meaning. Some of the Kennedy staff are pleasantly surprised at the extent of the favorable reaction to the incident.

Basically, the American people believe in sportsmanship. In an athletic contest the loser and the winner always shake hands afterwards. Quite a hullabaloo was stirred up last summer, for instance, at the Olympic Games in Rome when a Russian athlete, preoccupied after a grueling race, happened to ignore the victor. When he inquired and was told what the boos were about, he hastily congratulated the winner.

But there was something else besides good sportsmanship in the Nixon-Kennedy meeting after the election. It showed the rest of the world, of course, that in America there can be a spirited campaign and yet the two contenders can be friends afterwards.

Reason Called Political

The underlying reason, however, for the meeting was political in its broadest and best sense. The country revealed a sharp division in the election. The race was close — in fact, closer than either candidate really expected. There is nothing more important after such a contest than to promote good will on both sides. It is naturally Mr. Kennedy's concern more than it is Mr. Nixon's. But each has much to gain from such a manifestation of good will.

Mr. Kennedy, first of all, wants to reassure conservatives that he isn't as haywire on economic policies as the Democratic platform adopted at Los Angeles might imply. He would like to keep the fires of opposition from starting too soon—at least until he has a chance to express his viewpoint on major policies. He doesn't, moreover, want the country's business men to slow up their planning or feel they have to wait for months to find out which way the new Administration will turn—to the left or the right or to the middle way.

So far as foreign policy is concerned, this is where the least change is likely to occur. Broad and sweeping phrases about "bold and imaginative ideas" have been bandied about for the last several years by speakers on the Democratic side, especially in the so-called "Liberal" group. But the time will come—and it is just a few weeks off—and it is just a few ideas will have to stand the test of practicality, the substitution of action for broad phrases and the announcement of definite policy to fulfill the abstract slogans of the campaign.

Has Open Mind

President-elect Kennedy has a somewhat conservative background, but he has always had an open mind about "liberal" ideas and he will have around him some of the same type of "egghead" advisers that Franklin Roosevelt had in his famous "brain trust." But while there is a tendency to make comparisons already with F. D. R., and to talk of a "100 days" of action, the parallel really is more theoretical than real. There is no such crisis today in the economic life of the country as was present in 1933. When Mr. Roosevelt took office, he faced a closing of all the banks and the problem of 12,000,000 unemployed. He himself had made matters worse by refusing to co-operate with President Hoover in the pre-inauguration period.

The then President-elect shunned a personal meeting with the President and gave the impression that he feared to become involved in any action that might make him responsible for a further decline of the economic situation. It was bad judgment. Rumors of a program to devalue gold were in the air, and Mr. Roosevelt, who knew little about such things himself, depended on impractical advisers.

Knows the Capital Well

Mr. Kennedy is not likely to make such mistakes. He knows a good deal about Washington, as he has been immersed for fourteen years in federal affairs, whereas F. D. R. came directly from the governorship of New York. While he had some experience in the Navy Department as Assistant Secretary, he wasn't at all familiar with economic or international policy problems that were before him in 1933. He made the grave error in the summer of 1933 of dissolving the International Economic Conference at London, which, if properly developed, might have built up the deterrent strength of our allies and enabled them to avert World War II.

Mr. Nixon has already indicated he will help the President-elect in any way he can but political history tells us that the Vice President will maintain an independent course and begin quietly to prepare for the 1964 Presidential contest. The Republican standard bearer showed a grace and good will toward his opponent which won him friends even among those persons who didn't vote for him. His final speech of the campaign was a masterpiece of non-partisanship.

He is a more potent figure in national politics today than any other Republican. He may be expected to carry on a dignified and constructive opposition during the next four years — which is as it should be — and this is something which is fully understood abroad where they call it "the loyal opposition." America, therefore, has gotten a plus out of the Nixon-Kennedy meeting.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

The National Urban League in New York has "deplored" public indifference to the "hunger" of some 23,000 illegitimate children in Louisiana whose mothers were dropped from the relief rolls in compliance with a new state law. The league sounded a brassy note of bigotry of its own peculiar kind because, it said, most of those affected were Negroes. But the law contains no such discriminatory text or intent. It only discriminates against females who try to use their procreative faculty and the natural results to qualify for tax-paid incomes which had been, in many cases, lavish beyond the expectations of better citizens who support their own children and pay those taxes.

But in Boston, where Judge Frank J. Donohue, of the Suffolk Superior Court, currently deals angry justice to fathers who are brought before him for wilful non-support of their children, Negroes are the minority. The Urban League's lament does not charge discrimination in Boston.

In six weeks, forty fathers were found guilty at Judge Donohue's bar and twenty went to prison for two-year terms and two for four years. Seven were able to produce about $4,000 in overdue payments after they had spent a week in jail and the rest of the forty laid down $6,000 on the judge's bench to keep out of jail.

Judge Donohue said desertion of small children was a heartless and contemptible thing, a theme not emphasized in the Urban League's complaint although the league's purview covers areas of terrible tragedy caused by unpardonable indecency. He added that the taxpayer has enough difficulty supporting his own family and that some of the delinquents were living higher than law-abiding taxpayers who were footing their costs. In September, alone, Boston paid $825,624 in aid to dependent children, many of them victims of criminal desertion. Of course illegitimate children were among the whole number.

It is impossible to recall the facts of the matter in the days before "social" pressure forces decreed that the lowest types of the human race were entitled to financial subsidies. The traffic was a trickle as statistics were not kept.

But the results of this departure have been viewed with alarm and disgust.

In Media, Pa., a suburb of Philadelphia, Judge Arthur P. Bretherick charged a grand jury in March, 1958 that 33 per cent of the children "processed" at the Delaware County health centers were illegitimate. He said some women had as many as 10 or 11 illegitimate children, and advocated a new law to be entitled "The Promiscuous Bearing of Illegitimate Children."

"Common prostitutes are punished severely," Judge Bretherick said. "But we permit women to sell their bodies for the steady payments they receive from our taxes.

"It is a lucrative business venture all at the expense of taxpayers many of whom have a severe struggle to raise their legitimate children. The punishment should be three months for the third illegitimate child," allowing a woman two false steps free of penalty, "four months for the fourth and so on. There should be a fine of $100 in each case."

In March, 1958, the Washington Star reported that in the District of Columbia illegitimate children were consuming 18 per cent of the local welfare budget of about $3,000,000 a year. The juvenile court ws trying to collect from the fathers of 3,000 children born out of wedlock, but there was strong resistance among the mothers themselves. The males were elusive and the mothers were practical women without romantic dreams. An unenforceable court order against an absent sire was no comfort, but the relief office is always there and never broke.

Louisiana used to pay $64 a month for the first dependent child of a mother; $81 for the second and $98 for the third. When the score reached seven her income jammed. Her eighth and ensuing babies were her own hard luck—and theirs. But the household income was deemed plenty for a houseful, with prudent management. The unwed father could put his feet up and slosh gin at his ease. The mother of an illegitimate brood was required to name the sire or a reasonable suspect, but too often the roster of nominees resembled a jury list. So the state adopted the amendment which the Urban League resents, ignoring morals and equity.

Governor Jimmie Davis retorted that the mothers of the 23,000 children stricken from the Louisiana rolls were prostitutes, and denied that any child was starving as the league had said.

In Indianapolis, Lester Hunt, of the News, dug diligently but with pathetic final results. Boy friends prowled the back stairs. Husbands sneaked home in the dead of night. All concerned never had it so good.

The Urban League has an inalienable right to deplore the causes as well as the legislative results in such cases.

Most House Chair Positions Will Be From New York

WASHINGTON (AP) — Last week's election will give New York the lead in House committee chairmanships when the 87th Congress convenes in January.

New Yorkers will head 3 of the 20 House standing committees—Judiciary, Public Works and Labor — and will retain the vice chairmanship of the House Interior Committee.

There is little other significant change in the works for New Yorkers' committee assignments, although Rep. William E. Miller of Lockport will become second ranking Republican on the Un-American Activities Committee.

Miller now is second ranking Republican on the Judiciary Committee, which will be headed again next year by Rep. Emanuel Celler, New York City Democrat. Celler also is in line for the chairmanship of the Joint Senate-House Committee.

The only change in House committee chairmanships will be in the Labor and Education Committee, scheduled to be headed by Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, also a New York City Democrat.

New York's third chairman is Rep. Charles E. Buckley, New York City Democrat, of the Public Works Committee.

Powell, a Negro, said last week there was absolutely nothing to reports circulated earlier this year that he would be edged out as chairman of the Labor and Education Committee or that the committee would be split to reduce his power.

Powell said he had assurance from House Speaker Sam Rayburn that seniority would be observed and the committee would not be split.

The Labor Committee was headed last year by Rep. Graham Barden, D-N. C., who did not seek reelection. Powell now is senior Democrat on the committee.

Here's how other New Yorkers will stand on top committee assignments:

Rep. Leo O'Brien, D, will retain the vice chairmanship of the Interior Committee.

Rep. John Taber, R, will retain his top Republican ranking on the Appropriations Committee.

Rep. Clarence E. Kilburn, R, will retain the senior Republican spot on the Banking Committee.

Rep. R. Walter Riehlman, R, will remain the second senior Republican on the government Operations Committee.

Rep. J. Ernest Wharton will remain the second senior Republican on the Interior Committee.

New York is represented on all 20 standing committees.

From Organization

PBA Action Could Be Kennedy Ouster

NEW YORK (AP)—The embattled Patrolmen's Benevolent Association (PBA) has voted to bring charges against Police Commissioner Stephen P. Kennedy which could mean his ouster from the organization.

The PBA could not take any action affecting Kennedy's job as commissioner, but his membership in the PBA always has been a source of pride with him. Kennedy, who came up through the ranks, joined the PBA when he was a patrolman.

The association is engaged in a fight with Kennedy over the issue of "moonlighting"—holding outside jobs. The commissioner has banned outside jobs and penalized some officers.

The PBA made its move against Kennedy at a closed meeting Tuesday night in the basement of the Brooklyn apartment building where PBA President John J. Cassese lives.

Cassese has been on sick leave with a broken toe. A police surgeon refused to let him attend a PBA meeting at the association's usual place, a Manhattan hotel.

So the delegates—nearly 300 of them—piled into chartered buses and drove to Brooklyn. Cassese took the elevator to the basement, where he participated in the group's regular monthly meeting.

Under the PBA constitution, any member can be ousted if he is found guilty of acts prejudicial to the best interests of the association.

Charles Ballon, PBA general counsel, said "everybody knows the man (Kennedy) has tried to paralyze the PBA and make it impossible for it to function."

Culottes have now turned up in nightgown form. The top has a nightgown cut and the culottes are so full they look like a skirt. Nice change from pajamas and nightgowns.

Jacks' Protest Loses, Naming Of Jury Goes On

NEW YORK (AP)—The judge has rejected a defense contention that Negroes were improperly excluded from the panel of prospective jurors for the trial of Manhattan Borough President Hulan E. Jack, highest ranking Negro municipal officeholder in the nation.

After an interruption caused by the protest, examination of panel members resumes today.

Judge Joseph A. Sarafite disallowed defense counsel Carson DeWitt Baker's challenge Tuesday, after four officials in charge of the preparation of jury lists took the witness stand and denied Baker's allegation.

The principal witness was Deputy County Clerk Julius A. Archibald, a Negro.

Jack is on trial a second time on charges of violation of the city charter by accepting a $4,400 apartment remodeling job from a real estate operator doing business with the city. The indictment also charges Jack with conspiracy to obstruct justice by seeking to hide the facts of the deal from investigating authorities. The first trial ended with a hung jury last July 7.

No juror has been seated yet for the retrial. The panel of 90 includes two Negroes.

Jack suspended himself from his $25,000-a-year post in the Democratic city administration pending the outcome of the trial and retrial.

Taxing Decision

LAKE GENEVA, Wis. (AP)—Home is where a man's bedroom is. That's the official word from the Wisconsin Department of Taxation. The line dividing the town of Linn and the city of Lake Geneva passes through the home of Curtis McKay. Both communities claimed they were due the local refund on state taxes paid by McKay. The department agreed with the city, noting that McKay's bedroom was in Lake Geneva. As a result, the city received a check for $10,008, representing income tax returns for three years.

Think It Through

By E. F. HUTTON

EXPORTING JOBS

In the last ten years, total investment by American companies in Western Europe has jumped from $1.5 billion to $4.5. Since 1957, over 400 American companies have set up facilities in These facts are stated by the Chase Manhattan Bank of New York. At a capital investment of $15,000 per job, this comes to 300,000 jobs lost by American workmen and gained by European workmen.

E. F. Hutton

The chief reason for this is the difference between wage rates here and there. How much higher will Big Labor force wage rates up, and close more doors to American workingmen?

American capital has always looked abroad, but chiefly to produce things not to be found or grown in this country, such as coffee, bananas, tin, manganese, etc.

But today's investment in Western Europe is chiefly to produce goods that could as well be made here, if wage scales were somewhat comparable.

This may be "a cloud no larger than a hand" today, but it can become a very serious threat. It is already serious to our unemployed.

The next thing the Big Labor bosses will clamor for will be a revival of "McKinley tariffs" to stop American job losses due to their own never ending demands for "more."

For example, the U. S. wage rate, plus Social Security taxes and fringe benefits, is $2.60 per hour in manufacturing, and $1.08 in Sweden, which has the highest scale in Europe.

SPCS Explains Proper Winter Care for Dogs

The proper treatment for man's best friend during the winter months was suggested by Mrs. Katherine Stoutenburgh, president of Ulster County Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

Now is the time to winterize your dog's kennel, if he is to be kept outdoors during the winter months, Mrs. Stoutenburgh said.

Dogs can stand quite a bit of cold, but they cannot stand drafts and dampness. The dog house should be insulated by making sure that materials used for building, overlap so no wind can blow through, she said.

The floor should be double with insulating material between, and the building raised a few inches from the ground to prevent dampness. The door cut near one end rather than the center of the kennel, should be protected by a baffle or partition extending from the side of the door nearly to the back of the dog house, leaving just enough room for the dog to get around. The floor should be covered with several inches of straw for a bed, Mrs. Stoutenburgh said.

A dog that is constantly cold or damp has little resistance to colds, rheumatism and other diseases. A little added fat in his diet is also a help during the winter, she said.

Communists About Ready to Wipe Out Last Vestige of Free Cuba

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst

Underground sources report the Communists are just about ready for a try at driving the final nails into the coffin of what once was free Cuba.

As the Cubans begin to lose their enthusiasm for government by mass meeting, the Communists are moving on two important fronts to consolidate their grip for substitute government by fear and suspicion.

Follows MVD Lines

First, the Communists are the inspiration for the organization by the Fidel Castro regime of what appears to be a secret police system closely fashioned on the lines of the Soviet MVD of Stalin's day.

This police setup is reported to go under the name of "0-24" for reasons known best to its organizers. A Czechoslovak Communist who himself is a veteran of the Soviet MVD service is reported to be in complete charge of whipping the network together, so that control eventually will be complete over every aspect of Cuban daily life.

When this organization is in final shape, the Communists can hope Cuba will be as much a satellite of the Soviet Union as Hungary, no matter what label the Castro regime chooses to pin upon itself.

Taking Over Labor

Second, the Communists are quickly enveloping the leadership of the labor unions and taking steps to insure domination in that field. A new set of regulations, either already adopted or about to be adopted for the control of labor, has been drawn up by the executive of the Cuban Labor Confederation, which more and more is coming under Communist domination.

'Every labor center will become a garrison in which the working class will wage a battle for production," says one of the new regulations, foreshadowing a barracks-like existence for many a Cuban working man.

"In every plant and firm, vigilance must be increased to reduce the danger of acts of sabotage by the enemies of the revolution," says another, in an echo of the ever-wary leaders of the Communist world.

All these things have the ominous sound which has been heard many times before as other Democratic regimes in Europe and Asia were slowly suffocated.

Cuba today apparently swarms with agents of Communist nations. Their first objective appears to be what Cuban Communist chief Blas Roca has just demanded:

Castro to Lose Grip

"Solidifying the revolution." This means taking the revolution away from Fidel Castro, making him a figurehead for as long as his presence on the scene may be necessary, and running the country to suit the policies of Moscow.

Once the Communists rivet their totalitarian controls into place, the United States can expect a steady stream of trouble in many areas of Central and South America.

Authorities Look For Publisher as Robber of Banks

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Pictures drawn from descriptions by holdup victims led to a manhunt today for a mild-looking newspaper publisher accused of two bank robberies.

State and federal authorities named Lawrence C. Pope, 42, a church-going former bank executive, as the camera-carrying bandit who cooly staged the holdups on successive Saturdays.

In each instance the robber tied up his victims, collected all the money in sight and took time to snap pictures of women bank workers before fleeing unnoticed by outsiders.

Last weekend he made off with $4,783 from the Farmers State Bank in Schulenburg, 100 miles east of San Antonio in south Texas. Investigators said the same individual got $1,744 Nov. 5 from the First State Bank at Thornton, 120 miles north of Schulenburg.

Pope is publisher of the Giddings Tex. Star in the next county north from Schulenburg and also owns another small newspaper at Lexington, in the same county. He formerly was a federal bank examiner and has worked for banks in four Texas cities.

Confesses Fake Holdup to Pay Off Loan Shark

MINEOLA, N. Y. (AP) — A jewelry clerk confessed today that he faked a $203,000 holdup of his employer's store so he could pay off a loan shark who had been threatening him, Nassau County police said.

William Gordon, 43, of Oceanside, was charged with grand larceny.

The man he named as a loan shark, Louis Casa, 39, a former boxer of Queens, was held by police for questioning.

Deputy Inspector Elmer Robinson said Gordon broke down after 16 hours of questioning.

Detectives then quickly picked up Casa in Manhattan.

The 'holdup" was staged Tuesday at a jewelry store at Hewlett, near here.

Jewish Group Picks Ellenville Woman

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—The women's branch of the Union of Orthodox Jewish Congregations of America urges that all religious activity end education in the public schools be halted.

Religious programs in the public, schools are a violation of the constitutional provisions for separation of church and state, said a resolution passed Tuesday at the union's 37th annual convention.

The delegates represent more than 500 synagogue women's auxiliaries in the United States and Canada.

Mrs. Emanuel Lazar of Brooklyn, N. Y., was elected president of the group, succeeding Mrs. Allen E. Edles of Woodside, N.Y.

Memoriam

In loving memory of my husband and our father, George Bailey, who passed away one year ago today, Nov. 16, 1959.
Beloved husband, sweet, happy memories cling around your name;
True hearts that loved you with deepest affection, who love you in death just the same;
You left behind a broken heart that never did forget you and never will,
And who always thinks of you and who tries to be brave and content.
Gone is the face I loved so dear and silent is the voice we loved to hear.
Sad but true, we wonder why that the best are always first to die.
I hope to meet you some day, I know not when,
To clasp your hand in the better land, never to part again.

I AM THE WANT AD

By Harry Gwaltney

My MISSION is to serve humanity without regard to creed or position or time or place ● I herald the arrival of the new born, I serve them through life and announce their demise ● I am the servant of the poor, the commissioner of the rich ● With each sunrise and each sunset I go forth with new missions to perform ● Each new day new thousands rely upon me to fill their needs and satisfy their wants ● I search out all manner of things for all manner of persons ● I find the castle for the newlyweds, a home for those grown weary and aged ● I find a business for a future giant of industry and a little shop for a widow's livelihood ● I alter the course of millions, and many times the future of maid and man is of my determination ● I recover the lost pets of weeping children, and restore lost persons to anxious friends ● I sing the praise of artisans, proclaim the skill of craftsmen ● I find labor for the man of brawn as well as opportunity for trained and active minds ● I am the Fabled Dwarfs, Aladdin's Lamp and the Magic Wand of modern times ● Millions in trade are consummated through me, yet the value of my service is not to be measured in silver or gold ● Even rouges avail themselves of my power and filch from those who trust me ● I am an index of trends, a barometer of commerce, a harbinger of coming events ● I am a by-word in countless thousands of homes, the first thought in many times of need ● My speed of action, the sureness of my success, matches the completeness of my public acceptance ● Within my lines are the sad stories and the glad stories of everyday living that goes to make up life ● I perform in my own individual way and for me there is no substitute ● No other medium, no other method, plan, or scheme can duplicate my service ● In multiple, I become the world's greatest market of services and things ● I am born of the people and have lived and grown by their insistence and over the protests of those who held my destiny ● I have become an institution of service big enough and broad enough to do anything for anybody at any time—I AM THE WANT AD!

Board to Attend County Schools Ass'n. Meeting

Several members of Saugerties Board of Education and their wives will attend an organizational meeting of the proposed Ulster County School Board Association at Kingston High School Thursday night. The meeting is being called by Ben Miller of Ellenville, committee chairman.

Arrangements for the session were announced at this week's board of education meeting at the central school administration building.

The board of education has approved the restoration of wrestling to the athletic program at Saugerties High School. This is to be on a club basis.

The grounds at the Mt. Marion School are to be posted against trespassing by hunters. This is being done for the safety of the children there.

The tax collector for the school district, Mrs. Ruth Jacobson, reported the collection to date of $587,392.50. Taxes yet to be collected total $65,565, representing approximately the same ratio to collected taxes as prevailed last year at this time.

A delegation from the Junior Chamber of Commerce, headed by Joseph DeDominico, was present at the opening of the board meeting and issued an invitation to all board members and the superintendent to attend the banquet which the Junior Chamber of Commerce is planning for the championship football team of Saugerties High School, who enjoyed an unbeaten season and won the championship of the Dutchess County Scholastic League. The affair will be held at the Flamingo Nov. 30, 7 p. m. Players and coaches of the team will be the guests. A speaker will be secured for the occasion. The Junior Chamber of Commerce said that they are depending on local citizens for support in this project, and that the public is invited to attend on a reservation basis. In the event there should be a profit it is the intention of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, to turn the balance back to the school for some worthy purpose.

Receipts from attendance at football games this year have totaled $1,329.50, as opposed to $734.70 last year.

Patrick Rodden, business manager, reported that the total cash balance and receipts in the lunch fund for the four cafeterias in the local school system at the end of October is $24,630.82. On this basis the lunch program is financing its operation out of receipts from the sales of lunches as it was last year.

Thank Offering

It has been the custom of the members of the Saugerties Reformed Church to make a special thank offering on the Sunday prior to Thanksgiving. The Rev. Joseph H. Rainear Jr., pastor of Saugerties Methodist Church, will deliver the message.

The combined youth choirs of the council will offer music for the service.

CAPSULE RECOVERY—An Air Force C119 plane, piloted by Capt. Gene W. Jones of Walla Walla, Wash., snags capsule ejected from Discoverer XVII satellite high over Pacific Ocean northeast of Hawaii, Nov. 14. It is history's second aerial catch of a capsule separated from an orbiting satellite. The plane's trapeze-like catching device latched on to shrouds of the parachute that slowed capsule's descent. Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—"American television," said actor Robert Morley, "is far worse than it was a year ago. It is a shame, too, because today it is your most significant export, a barometer of your prestige abroad."

Morley, a British theatrical star and playwright, is in New York for the first time in 12 months to play a lead in tonight's CBS Show of the Month, an adaptation of the venerable play, "Heaven Can Wait," a comedy.

The performer, a witty man who obviously enjoys making outrageous remarks perhaps one rub-off from playing Oscar Wilde so often on the stage and in motion pictures suggests that it would be "impossible to make a film under the conditions imposed on American television producers."

"It is like an author trying to write a book with four sponsors breathing over his shoulders," he said, "and that is ludicrous. Television programs should be created like any other are forms. It can't be run by a committee—nothing really can be created by a committee. The way it works out is that one man is writing a show while 17 people around him are busy keeping their jobs. Sponsors really shouldn't be allowed any hand in it. And in England they are not."

Morley — who among other things finds it "ridiculous" that American television producers go to all the expense of importing one actor from Europe to play a role — cannot understand why there is such a shortage of good writers for television in this country.

In spite of his grumbling, Morley really enjoys his visits to this country, although he complains that he spends most of his time in New York shopping for his family and friends.

"Just today I bought a gold dress," he said. "I rather like gold dresses on pretty women and I hope it fits someone."

Here is another hand that is a death trap for Blackwood bidders.

North has a sound opening bid and South holds 19 points, including a good five-card suit and some help for his partner's spades. Nevertheless, there are two aces off the hand so a slam is out of the question and while the hand will almost surely produce five no-trump (there are 10 cold no-trump tricks) it is not going to make five odd in either spades or hearts.

Playing the Jacoby slam convention South responds two hearts only. If North goes to the three level South is willing to use Blackwood, but when North rebids two two spades South is now able to jump to four clubs and ask for aces right then and there.

After North shows one ace only by his four-heart bid South knows there is no slam. He also knows that no-trump is a perfectly safe contract and bids four no-trump.

North is not keen about no-trump but is not to reason why. South has taken full responsibility for playing four no-trump and North defers to his partner's judgment and passes.

matter of FACT

Most courts today have more cases than they can try. But the Court of Chivalry in England is gathering dust. No cases were brought before the court from 1737 to 1954. Finally, in 1954, the city fathers of Manchester rose up in chivalrous wrath and filed suit against the Manchester Palace of Varieties for improper use of the city's coat of arms. The Palace is an amusement house.

Timmerman Asks Aid of Parents

Parents of school children in Ulster County are reminded that there are several situations in which emergency dismissal of pupils could happen at unannounced hours. Major H. Edgar Timmerman, director of Ulster County Civil Defense urged that parents arrange for nearby neighbors and friends to shelter pupils when both parents are away from the home.

Natural disasters, extreme weather conditions, and many other conditions as well as imminence of enemy attack, may make it necessary to order the evacuation of pupils from one or more schools. Timmerman stressed that it is the responsibility of parents to arrange for temporary care in such situations and to carefully instruct their children where to go in the immediate neighborhood of the home.

In many instances no advance notice can or will be given. He said that in the event of any real emergency no advance notice could be given and that to give such notice in a drill would have the effect of nullifying the drill.

If you cook bacon over very low heat the drippings will be white and they may be used to season green vegetables.

Kennedy Leaves Later Today for Talks With LBJ

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President-elect John F. Kennedy flies today to the Texas ranch of the new administration's vice president, Lyndon B. Johnson, for planning of the forthcoming switch of power from Republican hands .

The Kennedy-Johnson talks beginning this evening and continuing through Thursday are expected to deal also with preliminary formulation of a congressional legislative program against the background of campaign promises on a wide range of domestic and international matters.

First Since Election

The Democratic winners will be meeting for the first time since their election last week over Republicans Richard M. Nixon and Henry Cabot Lodge.

Kennedy arranged to take off from his vacation headquarters in the late afternoon aboard a chartered jet airliner. From Palm Beach he flies to Bergstrom Air Force Base near Austin, Tex., and switches there to a small plane for about a 60-mile flight to the LBJ ranch at Johnson City.

Johnson, who moves to the vice presidency in January from his powerful post as Senate Democratic leader, arranged to meet Kennedy at Bergstrom and escort him to the ranch.

After a tour of the ranch and dinner, the president-elect and Johnson will get down to serious talking about the Kennedy program for moving America ahead in the 1960s.

Scheduled Thursday is a full round of further conferences into the early evening but there may be some time out for recreation.

Th Texas hunting season for white tail deer opens a few hours after Kennedy's arrival, and herds of these swift animals are a familiar sight on the LBJ ranch on the Pedernales River.

Kennedy plans to be back at Palm Beach, where since last Friday he has been staying at the home of his parents, by midnight Thursday.

Jack Plays Golf

The Florida stay has been a combination of work and relaxation. Thursday afternoon the president-elect conferred for two hours with one of his earliest and staunchest supporters, Gov. Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut. Then they played nine holes of golf—and Ribicoff reported Kennedy the winner, one-up in match play.

Ribicoff, also vacationing in Florida, has been mentioned prominently for a Cabinet post or some other key position in the new administration.

But he told a news conference after his session with Kennedy that the president-elect made him no job offer.

Six Are Overcome After Lighting Stove

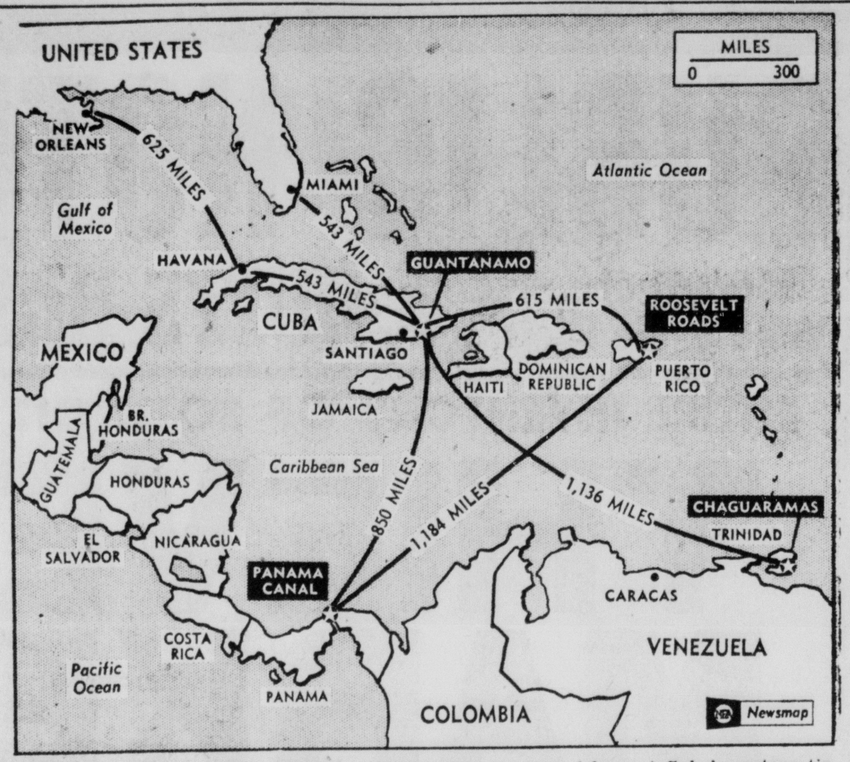

SCHENECTADY, N. Y. (AP)—Six persons were overcome today when they apparently tried to heat an apartment by lighting four burners of a kitchen stove.

The Niagara Mohawk Power Corp. said there had been insufficient ventilation and the oxygen in the apartment had been consumed.

Five persons were admitted to Ellis Hospital, where they were reported in satisfactory condition. They were Kenneth Hebert, 30, his son, Kenneth Jr., 2, his daughter, Jane, 5, Etta Marbert, 68, all of Schenectady, and Miss Patricia Bascomb, 17, of Amsterdam, who was visiting the family.

The other person was treated at the scene.

A nephew, Peter St. Andrews, 21, said he found the family overcome when he arrived to visit and called an ambulance.

PANAMA CANAL'S "BIG STICK"—Guantanamo, U.S. naval base at Cuba's eastern tip, is the key link in the Panama Canal's defense chain. U.S. policy is to resist any attempt by Premier Castro to abrogate treaty of 1903 under which the base is held. Newsmap shows how "Gitmo," as it is known, teams with other U.S. bases in area — Roosevelt Roads on Puerto Rico and Chaguaramas on Trinidad—to guard searoads leading to canal. Shown, too, are as-the-crow-flies distances from mainland points and between strategic bases and canal. Trinidad is demanding U.S. evacuate its Chaguaramas base built in World War II under a 99-year lease from Britain.

Goal Post Case Off Till Nov. 29

A Newburgh group was at hand Tuesday night for final city court disposition of charges which grew of a reported Nov. 10 raid on Dietz Stadium football goal posts, but another adjournment was taken to Nov. 29.

Held for involvement in the reported malicious mischief were Richard Levin, 18, of Grand Avenue; Harold Seibert, 17, of 71 Ronson Avenue, and James Leonard Mazzeo, 17, 6 Tulip Lane, all of Newburgh.

Levin and Seibert pleaded guilty Nov. 11, and Mazzeo indicated he is to be represented by counsel. The others await sentence.

Police reports indicated that a larger group had been involved in the goal posts raid which was discovered by Officer Kenneth Radel, but only the three were caught and booked on charges. They were released under $25 bail each.

Water Complaint

property involved is at 31 Brook Street, wrote:

"I wish to bring to your attention the following situation which affects my family and property which I own.

"I own a house and land on which it stands. For roughly the past 25 years, this house has had city water. It is located inside the limits of the city of Kingston.

"Recently, the water board of the City of Kingston shut off the supply of water to this house. My water bills are all paid; so this cannot be the reason.

"All pleas I have made to the above mentioned board have brought no results. I am still without water. I cannot rent my house, nor can I sell my house without water.

"In your capacity as a public service committee, will you please investigate. Find out why I cannot get water. As a citizen of Kingston and a user of water within its confines, I feel I am entitled to be able to buy and use city water."

Edmund T. Cloonan, water department superintendent, said he knew of no shutting off of a city-owned water line in the area.

Sale Uptrend Is Noted in Autos

A fall uptrend in the sale of cars was noted at a Monday meeting of the Kingston Automobile Dealers Association in the Kirkland Hotel.

A large attendance of dealers was reported, and it was noted that all agreed that "right after election their business in new and used automobiles picked up to a great extent for this time of year."

It was also noticed that "in some areas sales were slow, but gratifying enough" to show marked improvement in this area.

The session was conducted by Jack Hayes, association president.

Lodge Discounts Report of Post With Democrats

NEW YORK (AP)—Henry Cabot Lodge, leaving for a vacation in the Virgin Islands, today discounted any possibility that he might be offered a post in the new Democratic administration.

The unsuccessful Republican candidate for vice president boarded a plane at Idlewild Airport with his wife. He said they planned to spend a week or so in the Virgin Islands.

Lodge told newsmen any possibility that he might be offered—or might accept—an appointment by President-elect John F. Kennedy was "a new idea."

There has been speculation that Kennedy is considering the appointment of top Republicans in his administration.

Lodge and his wife traveled first class and apparently did not see Sen. Kennedy's sister, Jean Kennedy Smith, and her husband, Stephen, who rode in the economy section of the same plane.

The Smiths, with their son, Stephen Jr., 3, were bound for a 10-day vacation in Puerto Rico.

Milk Prices Are Normal in L.I.

MINEOLA, N. Y. (AP) — An apparent truce was declared today in Long Island's week-long milk price war, which had sent housewives scurrying to buy milk for as little as five cents a quart.

Leonard Cooper, attorney for the Long Island Licensed Milk Dealers Council, Inc., said prices apparently have returned to near normal "as of this morning."

He cautioned that the "truce" was only temporary but he said "we have reason to hope we can bring about a permanent settlement."

Prices today in most stores were at or very near the normal $1.05 a gallon, 54 cents a half gallon and 28 cents a quart.

Some stores were selling a few cents cheaper.

A spokesman for Hill's Supermarkets, a group of 22 stores on Long Island, said they were selling at 89 cents a gallon, 54 cents a half gallon and 25 cents a quart.

Devida's Delicatessen in New Hyde Park, which had sold 900 quarts at five cents a quart, said its price was back to 26 cents.

The price war apparently was set off by introduction of one gallon bottles, enabling distributors to cut costs through use of one bottle instead of four for four quarts of milk.

Troopers, DA

conversation were not disclosed.

Saturday night, Mrs. Doyle was alone in her home when she heard someone battering on the rear door and she notified Kingston State police.

Before authorities arrived, Mrs. Selina Marinovic, a neighbor, heard Mrs. Doyle's cries for help and she ran to her home. She found Mrs. Doyle on the kitchen floor, badly beaten and injured.

Intruder Scared

Mrs. Marinovic's arrival apparently frightened the intruder, who troopers said ran upstairs and leaped from a second floor window to the ground, about 20 feet.

Troopers said they found Page's automobile parked near the Thruway overpass about an eighth of a mile from the Doyle residence in the opposite direction from Page's home — three miles away. Corporal Shannon said the car was impounded for inspection, but later was returned to Page's family because it was their only means of transportation.

Shannon said no warrants have been issued. He confirmed a report that troopers are keeping the district attorney's office informed of developments in the case. He also said a report of the results of laboratory tests are expected soon. The tests are being made of the clothes in an effort to detect blood or other matter that might aid in solving the case.

Marshlow, who now resides in Kenmore, was appointed to the $14,000-a-year post by Milton Alpert, chief counsel to the state agency.

Churchill Hurt in Fall

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill has broken a bone in his back in a fall at his home, a household spokesman said today.

The former prime minister, who will be 86 on Nov. 30, 'will have to remain in bed for a little time," the spokesman said.

Ring Found Again

ETNA, Maine (AP)—In the 55 years Mrs. Leighton S. Sylvester has been married, her wedding ring has been lost more than 50. She first lost it less than two years after her marriage while digging in her garden. Twenty years later her husband found the ring. Less than two years it was lost again. Now, the ring is back in Mrs. Sylvester's possession once more. A tenant on the farm the Sylvesters formerly owned dug it up.

Democrats Brace For Re-alignment Battle With GOP

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Democrats braced today for an uphill struggle against Republicans in a re-alignment of congressional districts that is almost certain to cost the Democrats two seats.

The Democrats will outnumber Republicans in the state's congressional delegation next year, but the delegation subsequently will be reduced from 43 to 41 because of population changes.

Before the 1962 election, the Republican - controlled Legislature must re-chart the state's congressional districts. The Republicans can be expected to draw lines that will benefit them, at the expense of the Democrats.

Such gerrymandering is an old game among politicians.

One seat probably will be eliminated by combining the adjoining districts of Democratic Reps. Leo O'Brien of Albany and Samuel S. Stratton of Schenectady.

N.Y.C. Other Target

A representative from New York City, stronghold of the state's Democratic delegation, is the likely other target.

The number of seats in the House of Representatives fixed at 435, must be reapportioned every 10 years on the basis of population changes.

Final 1960 Census results, released yesterday, showed that other states grew faster than New York.

The Empire State gained 13.2 per cent in population in the 1950 decade. Florida had the biggest percentage increase, 78.7.

The mathematical reshuffling, worked out by the Census Bureau, chops two seats from New York's congressional delegation.

The changes will take effect for the 1962 general election.

Among New York's congressional delegation taking office in January will be 22 Democrats and 21 Republicans. The Democrats cut the 24-19 Republican majority in last week's election.

Two Are Vulnerable

William Fitts Ryan, the Democrat who defeated the Tammany organization, and Otis G. Pike, who was elected in Suffolk County, will be vulnerable when the 1961 Legislature undertakes its task.

Booming Nassau and Suffolk counties, which now have a total of three seats, probably will gain two at the expense of New York City districts.

Population changes within the state will be a factor in redrawing the lines. The broad realignment may affect other districts.

Shopping Center

stores to the north of the indicated Woolworth store.

Another concern reported interested in the project is the Fields Company, which operates in the New England area.

Trains Key Workers

So far has the Woolworth plan progressed that Kozak has been requested to place in training certain key help in the local store for positions in the proposed shopping center.

It is reported a Long Island building concern, now engaged on a job in the metropolitan area, will move into the Kingston area and begin construction on the shopping center within a short time. A tentative date for opening the center is reported to be about April 1, 1961.

Room for 679 Cars

Sketches of the proposed shopping center show parking space in front for 679 cars, and an additional parking area for between 50 and 60 cars in the rear.

Opening of a Woolworth store in the shopping center will not effect the Wall Street store, which was recently erected and is one of Woolworth's most modern stores.

(Morgan Davis & Co.)

NEW YORK (AP) — Major stocks drifted more or less aimlessly today while profit taking held back some of Tuesday's high-flying issues.

It was an active first hour, but after that the pace simmered down. By early afternoon most stocks were within one point on either side of Tuesday's close.

The mixed groups included steels, rails, chemicals, building materials, aircrafts and electronics. Drugs were mostly a bit higher and metals generally lower.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was down .20 at 214.50 with industrials off .30, rails off .20 and utilities unchanged.

The Dow Jones industrial average was up 1.26 at 608.13.

Corporate bonds declined. U.S. governments were higher.

Growth and High Yield Rarely Found Together

ROGER E. SPEAR

Q) "I want to purchase some growth stocks with high yields —about 5 or 6 per cent. Can you suggest some?"—D.B.

A) No, I can't And I doubt if anyone else can either.

Although the market has come down this year, it is far from the point where you can buy high yield together with established growth. Investors are always willing, except under conditions of genuine depression, to pay a premium for growth. It is an old saying in this business that the higher the yield the lower the growth and vice versa. Stocks of the caliber of Corning Glass sell to yield 1.2 per cent; Eastman Kodak, 1.7 per cent and General Electric, 2.7 per cent.

I believe your best bet would be to buy a stock in which growth has been temporarily checked but probably will be resumed. Outstanding in this category would be the best oils, such as Standard of New Jersey and Socony, which yield over 5 per cent. Or a good utility of steady but moderate growth might do: Duquesne Light Co. of Pittsburgh, for example, which yields 4.9 per cent.

Q) "I took a very nice profit on Walt Disney Productions as it recovered from the last recession. Now the shares are declining to where I originally bought them and I am interested again. Do you think Disney will recover."—F. S.

A) Everybody knows and likes the famous Disney characters. However, there are few businesses in the world which are not subject to some fluctuation. The entertainment business happens to be among the most extreme in this regard, and the record of Disney Productions reflects this. Earnings and share prices vary widely. 1960 profits most likely will be well below the 1959 level.

I would rather see you in a more stable situation with excellent prospects, such as Burry Biscuit (ASE).

Mr. Spear cannot answer all mail personally but will answer all questions possible in his column.

Greenglass Out

ment's key witness at the Rosenbergs' trial.

A radar expert, Morton Sobell, joined the Rosenbergs in denying their guilt and stood trial with them. All three were convicted. Sobell was sentenced to 30 years. The Rosenbergs wree executed in June, 1953.

Two Still in Prison

Another member of the ring, Harry Gold, a Philadelphia biochemist, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to from 8 to 30 years in prison.

Sobell and Gold are still in prison.

Why did Greenglass steal atomic information? He said it was because he felt the Soviet Union—wartime ally of the United States—was entitled to it.

Greenglass was born on New York's lower East Side, and in his youth belonged to the Young Communist League. In 1943, he was inducted into the Army and a year later sent to Los Alamos, N. M., where he worked on the atomic bomb.

Provided Bomb Sketch

Greenglass provided a sketch of the bomb—the type dropped on Nagasaki, an expert said—for Rosenberg for relay to the Soviet Union. Greenglass was arrested in 1950.

The spy ring allegedly was headed by Rosenberg, but masterminded by Anatoli Yakovlev, a former Soviet vice consul in New York. He disappeared before the espionage ring was uncovered.

The ring also reportedly had connections with Klaus Fuchs, the British scientist, who served a prison term in England. Fuchs, after his release, disappeared behind the Iron Curtain.

Greenglass' wife, Ruth, was named a co-conspirator but not a defendant at the time Greenglass was arrested. They have two children.

solidated) and that eligible organizations in the community will cooperate, when such a committee is established, by sending delegates to form its nucleus "in the spirit of true democracy."

Complexion of Committee

A non-partisan nominating committee, as envisaged by AAUW, would be composed of represenatives of various civic organizations and members-at-large. Each organization would be represented by two delegates, according to tentative plans.

Under the present system any resident of the school district may become a candidate for the board by obtaining 100 signatures on a petition. It is the feeling of AAUW that candidates should be carefully screened in order to obtain those best qualified.

The terms of President Robert Herzog and Vice President Robert O'Reilly expire next spring. They will be replaced in election in May.

Air Crash Survivor Buys New Pair of Hands

Will to Live Pulls Her Through After 37 Operations, 101 Weeks in Hospital

Editor's Note: How the will to live can transcend the frailty of a broken human body is movingly told in this exclusive story made available to The Associated Press by the New Bedford (Mass.) Standard-Times. It is a condensation of three articles, the first of which will be published by the Standard-Times today.

By EILEEN LARDNER
New Bedford Standard-Times Staff Writer

NEW BEDFORD, Mass. (AP)—Lita Levine of Brooklyn, N.Y., bought a new pair of hands last week.

The story of Lita and her new hands began on the night of Aug. 15, 1958. Northeast Airlines Flight 258—two hours late out of New York because of bad weather—was coming in for a landing on tiny Nantucket Island, off the Massachusetts coast.

Almost Tragic Vacation

Lita, 23, a $73-a-week cashier in a New York brokerage firm, starting a 10-day vacation, fastened her seat belt and smoothed her brown hair with slim, graceful fingers. She deferred reaching for her gloves. It didn't really matter. Soon Lita would not need gloves.

The big twin-engine Convair came down through heavy fog and struck the ground 300 yards short of the runway. It plowed a 500-foot swath through a field of scrub growth and pine trees, then burst into flames.

Twenty-four persons died in the crash. Of 10 survivors, two later died. Lita was one who lived.

Under 800-Pound Engine

"It happened so suddenly," she recalls. "It was as though it were in a dream, as though it were happening to someone else. One minute everything was fine. The nc minute I was pinned under something—I didn't know what."

That something was an 800-pound engine.

"I knew I was badly hurt," explains Lita. "My arms were crossed in front of me and I could see my fingers burning and raw. Your mind sort of turns off at a time like that."

Lita lay on her back, her hair and head burned, her face and body black with oil and burns. She cried, "I can't see."

A man took a handkerchief and wiped her eyes and face.

Pleaded to Be Killed

"Please don't let me die," she cried and then, as pain swept her, "Kill me."

Thirty men lifting with ropes and hands at last lifted the engine and freed Lita. "We were given superhuman strength," one said afterward.

Lita lost consciousness. She awoke in the Massachusetts General Hospital, Boston.

"When I came to, I couldn't see anything. I thought I was blind. I remember screaming." A physician, understanding her panic, removed bandages momentarily giving Lita a brief blurred glimpse that reassured her.

Arms, Legs Charred

Hospital records show Lita had second-and third-degree burns over 40 or 50 per cent of her body. Her arms and legs were charred, her fingers black. Her right eyelid was deeply burned and there was some impairment of vision. There was almost complete external destruction of both ears and extensive external skull injuries. Her left kneecap was fractured. She had numerous deep scoop-like cuts.

There were days a d weeks under sedation. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Levine, were constantly at her bedside. There followed during the next two years 37 operations. Surgeons tried to save her fingers — and failed.

Learns Fingers Gone

There came a victory when Lita stood on her good left leg. And, a month later, the worst blow when on Nov. 10, she learned her fingers were gone.

"At first I made myself believe it was a bad dream, that the fingers would grow back on again," she says.

The despairing girl, asking for death, said, "I won't accept it; I won't live without hands." Eighteen hours a day her mother fought a battle of the spirit. In between Lita's father took over, softly speaking hour after hour that she would be all right.

The parents' love won and Lita at last accepted the thought, "I did have a chance; I had to get better."

Doctors cut V-clefts between the stumps of her thumbs and middle fingers. With her maimed hands she could hold a cigarette, or a cup of coffee.

More Surgery Ahead

"At last, I could do some things for myself," she says.

On June 29 this year, after 101 weeks, she was discharged. But ahead lay more surgery. She had to have a new right eyelid and lashes. Her brown hair had been replaced with a wig. Her arms and legs were scarred. External portions of her skull, including her forehead, needed more surgery. Her nose had been re-made. One leg is permanently stiff.

A few weeks ago she was awarded a settlement of $375,000 for her injuries.

Now she has plans.

May Go to Europe

She will shop for drapes for the Boston apartment where she and her parents live while awaiting her further surgery. Maybe she will paint. She was good in art while at school.

She hopes to tour Europe for six months or so.

Her invested trust fund should care for her needs for life. But she hopes to work again in a brokerage house.

And now she has bought some new hands. She will wear rings on them. And gloves. She always liked gloves. She almost reached for her gloves—just before the crash.

TV Strike Averted

NEW YORK (AP)—A settlement offer today averted a performers' strike—at least temporarily—against the four major television and radio networks. Terms were not disclosed.

Formal negotiations between the networks and the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists AFTRA ended 3½ hours after a midnight strike deadline.

Book on Junior College Now at Kingston Library

Of interest to Kingstonians who are considering the role of a community college in Ulster County is a new book at the Kingston Library, The Community Junior College, by James W. Thornton.

Tohrnton, now professor of education at San Jose State College, helped organize the Orange Coast College in 1947, a community college in California with a present enrollment of 2,000.

His book is an analysis of what, according to educationalists, is a new type of educational institution. Chapters deal with the history, organization and curriculum of the community college.

Thornton began his career as a high school teacher in Redwood City. Other positions include professor of education at Florida State University and the University of Colorado.

In the chapter on establishing the community college, Thornton attributes the founding of the Orange County Community College to the return of World War II veterans whose education had been interrupted by military service.

Taylor Illness Is Diagnosed Now as Minor Irritation

LONDON (AP) — Elizabeth Taylor's multimillion-dollar illness finally has been diagnosed by doctors as a comparatively minor irritation of the membranes covering the brain. It is called meningism and usually is found only in children.

Fears were expressed Sunday when the actress, weeping and clutching her head, was rushed to the London Clinic that she might be suffering from meningitis. Tuesday night, after 48 hours of suspense, the diagnosis ruling out meningitis was announced.

A spokesman for Dr. Carl Goldman, physician for Miss Taylor, explained that "meningitis is caused by a bacteria which is inside the brain. Meningism is caused by an infection outside the brain and its effects are ephemeral."

You'll be Sure IF IT'S A LAND O'LAKES Turkey

A woman's reward at Thanksgiving is the admiration of her family in her ability to present a large, beautiful, juicy, golden turkey for their pleasure at the Thanksgiving Dinner. THERE IS NO SUBSTITUTE FOR QUALITY AT A TIME LIKE THIS.

This is why LAND O' LAKES northern grown, late-killed, oven-ready TURKEYS were selected for our customers. For when LAND O' LAKES set out to produce the best turkeys in all America, a powerful program was set up to guarantee this goal. First of all Land O' Lakes country, with its rich Dairylands, was right for the project. But even more important than a natural habitat for the development of turkeys was Land O' Lakes system for quality controls. Scientific breeding and feeding account for the broad breasts which have actually become the trade-mark of Land O' Lakes turkeys. The flesh of the entire bird is sweet and juicy. Put a fork into it after baking and the flesh fairly melts away. It's that tender. That's why the housewife buys and buys again for the holidays — a ready to eat turkey of this typical Land O' Lakes quality.

Ministers Favor Fire Inspections At Sunday Schools

Sunday School inspections ordered last week by the Mid-Hudson Harlem Valley Fire Chiefs Association were endorsed Monday by the Rev. Robert S. Balfe, president of the Dutchess County Ministerial association, who said the inspection plan represents "a good measure to take."

The Rev. Mr. Balfe, minister of the First Congregational Church, Poughkeepsie, and vice president of the Dutchess County Council of Churches, also endorsed remarks made last weekend by the Rev. Franklin J. Hinkamp, minister of the Reformed Church of Poughkeepsie and head of the county council of churches.

The Rev. Mr. Hinkamp said he felt the fire inspections, which will be made by fire officials of each community with church officials, are a good safety precaution and where hazards are found, church officials would be happy to correct them.

Richard J. Kennedy, chairman of the fire chief's fire prevention committee, suggested yesterday that parents check on their children's Sunday school classes while they are in session to decide for themselves if they are satisfied with the safety precautions taken.

Kennedy said that if a situation is found where the committee feels condemnation should be instituted, every effort will be made to find temporary quarters to conduct Sunday school classes until corrective steps are taken. He suggested that fire halls could be used for that purpose.

THEY'LL DO IT EVERY TIME (Registered U. S. Patent Office) By JIMMY HATLO

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

One of my readers loaned me such exciting books about the Hudson river and steamboating that I do not know which one to enjoy first. I have mentioned one in a previous column called "Memoir on Steamboats of the United States of America" by Jean Baptiste Marestier. It was translated by Sidney Withington from French into English. It was first published in France in 1824 and has been recently published by the Marine Historical Association, Inc., of Mystic, Conn.

United States was a young country back in the early 1800's, and already Europe was hearing wonderous things about us. Our steamboats so intrigued them that Europeans were coming over just to watch and learn from us. The French sent over Jean Baptiste Marestier, and this book is his report on our boats before 1824. It also gives one an idea what life on our inland waterways was like and what this Frenchman thought about our progress over here.

This from page 12 of the book, "Mr. Fulton himself saw the first boat he had built in Paris sink under the weight of her machinery, and when taught by this accident he had taken precautions to prevent a repetition. He like his predecessors, obtained only a very low speed..." This discouragement taught him what he needed to know..."and the birth of the new system of navigation dates from the success of the boat he built in New York in 1807. It took nearly a century to develop this happy application of the steam engine."

While reading this book, it would be interesting if we could check by seeing the replica of the Clermont in our Kingston Point lagoon. It was sold to the Hudson River Dayline, after the Hudson-Fulton celebration with the understanding that it be kept in good repair and running order to be used when needed for show and educational purposes. Instead it was let stand to rot and fall apart.

Marestier wrote about the "Chancellor Livingston," which he said was the most beautiful boat in New York. The Livingston was built in 1816 for Hudson River travel. She was 154 feet long and 33 feet across beam. She was the first boat in which was installed a 60-horse-power engine. She was copper sheathed and cost $[illegible]

About his experiences on the Livingston he w[illegible] trip on this boat from New [illegible] to Albany in 21 hours and 16 minutes, the distance being 120 nautical miles. Assuming that the effect of currents, which in this interval flow first in one direction and then in the other, is compensating, the average speed was 5.64 knots or 2.9 meters per second, or the boat travelled its own length in 17 seconds. The paddle wheels made 17 revolutions per minute."

Marestier then goes back to 1811 and writes about the Paragon's run from New York to Albany which took 30 hours, returning at 4 miles per hour. "Since she was built," he wrote, "boats have been operated on the Hudson at higher speeds. She now goes only as far as Poughkeepsie, which is about half way."

He also mentions horse-operated boats, or "team boats" and he gives plans for them. He wrote in part: "Horses sometimes replaced the steam engine in ferry boats. In order to provide a large circular track for the horses to walk on, the deck was pojected out over the water, outside the hulls. The plans he shows of this horse-operated ferry is 79 feet long and 39 feet wide. His knowledge was first hand, and he gives many details.

O&W History Told to Sullivan Historical Group

Portions of the history and some amusing anecdotes of the defunct New York Ontario & Western Railway were told to members and friends of the Sullivan County Historical Society Inc. meeting for its annual dinner Monday at the Grahamsville school dining room.

John W. Farrell of New York City, collaborator with Professor William F. Helmer, in the publishing of the book "O & W Story," was the guest speaker.

Attorney Joseph T. Willis acted as toastmaster for the dinner with arrangements in charge of M. B. Wakefield of Grahamsville, president of the historical society. Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Eighmey of Kingston author of several magazine articles on the railroads of the vicinity, were guests of President Wakefield.

An exhibit of momentoes of the Ontario & Western railroad was featured in an adjoining room, while a motion picture of the last train to operate over the railroad out of Liberty, closed the program.

In conjunction with his remarks, Farrell showed many pictures of various "name" trains on the railroad and installations along the tracks, dating back to the beginning of the century.

Fresh Grapefruit Stuffing Is New Thanksgiving Idea

GOLDEN turkey is filled deliciously with fresh grapefruit stuffing. On the side are avocados with cranberry relish.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise
Food & Markets Editor

Although you can get frozen turkeys that are already stuffed with old-fashioned bread stuffing and ready for the oven, many cooks still prefer to use their own homemade stuffing.

As you know, modern frozen turkeys are "tucked" for convenience. The drumsticks have been tucked into slit of skin at the base of the breastbone to form a natural truss, eliminating need for needles, string or skewers.

Fresh Grapefruit Stuffing

Combine 5 cups toasted bread cubes, 1¾ cup diced celery, ¼ cup chopped onion, 1 cup diced fresh grapefruit, 1 tablespoon minced fresh parsley, 1½ teaspoons grated grapefruit rind, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon poultry seasoning, ¼ teaspoon ground black pepper, ½ cup boiling water or chicken broth and 1/3 cup melted butter or margarine. Stuff body cavity and crop of a 5 to 6-pound ready-to-cook turkey. Double recipe for 12-pound turkey. (Good for stuffing chicken and duck, also.)

Chestnut Stuffing
(Yield: 9 cups; enough to stuff a 12-pound bird)

One and one-half cups finely shopped onion, 1½ cups finely chopped celery, 1/3 cup butter or margarine, 8 cups dry bread cubes (½-inch), 1½ teaspoons salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, ½ teaspoon poultry seasoning, ½ teaspoon sage, 1 cup chopped chestnuts, ¼ cup water, 1 egg, well beaten.

Cook onions and celery in butter in a skillet until tender. Add mixture to bread cubes. Mix in seasonings and chestnuts. Combine water and egg. Add to bread mixture and mix thoroughly. Stuff thawed bird immediately and roast.

THANKSGIVING DINNER: Shrimp bisque, golden roasted turkey with chestnut stuffing, glazed sweet potatoes, green beans with white onions, hot biscuits, butter or margarine, avocado halves with cranberry relish, pumpkin pudding, fresh fruit bowl, nuts, coffee, tea, milk, cider.

Broker's Son Is Sought for Film Holdup, Shooting

WASHINGTON (AP)—Police today hunted for a college student they accused of holding up a movie theater and wounding a policeman in a getaway gun battle.

A warrant identified the student as Paul Cushman McGee, the 22-year-old son of a Wall Street broker. His father, Cushman McGee of Larchmont, N. Y., publicly appealed to his son to surrender.

Police issued a 12-state alarm for young McGee, a part-time student at American University. They said he probably was wounded.

A girl friend said McGee phoned her after the time of the robbery Monday night. He was in trouble so serious, he told her, that he didn't think he could survive it. He would never see her again, he added.

On Monday night, a gunman robbed the Apex Theater of $230. Pvt. Alfred L. Black, who tried to stop him was wounded slightly in the forearm. He said he thought he had wounded the gunman, who rushed away in a car.

Two and a half hours later, police found the car, blood-stained, bullet-riddled, and abandoned. They traced the ownership to young McGee.

Lewis C. Sparks, 22, told police he had driven McGee to Philadelphia airport yesterday and McGee had said he would take a plane to Larchmont.

The father said McGee asked his family for money to pay for a $300 repair bill on his car.

McGee said his son, a 6-foot-2, 170-pounder, had been president of his student council in high school. He then entered Haverford College and he tried out for the football team.

After being hospitalized for a concussion and a knee injury received in a scrimmage, McGee said the boy's good scholastic marks dropped. He left Haverford four years ago and enrolled at American University last fall.

At Albany, N. Y., state police broadcast an alarm that young McGee might have flown into the area.

The Handout Set

BALTIMORE (AP) — As Lee Poist, a soft drink supervisor, sat in a truck the other day, a man approached and asked him for money. To teach the man a lesson, Poist thought, he poured out his own sob story about how tough things were financially. Then he gasped as the panhandler pulled out a roll of $17 and peeled off $1 for Poist. Poist says he'll keep it for life.

Named by IBM To Yorktown Job

JOHN H. STEWART

Announcement of the appointment of John H. Stewart, formerly of Kingston, as manager of program budgets at the IBM Yorktown Research Center was announced today.

Stewart, a native of Kingston, is now residing in Peekskill with his wife and daughter.

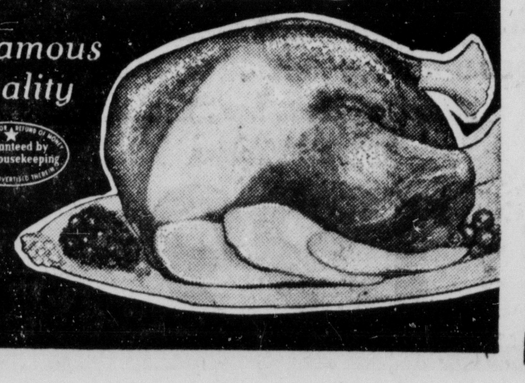

Stewart joined the research budgets department in 1957 after having served three years on active duty as a commissioned officer in the U. S. Navy. He advanced successfully to clerical specialist, staff assistant, and, in early 1960, to group supervisor.

Stewart was awarded his BS degree in marine transportation from the State University of N. Y. Maritime College in 1954 and his MBA degree in industrial management from New York member of the U. S. Naval Reserve and the U. S. Naval Institute.

Election Speedup

NEW DELHI (AP)—India's third general election, in February, 1962, will be completed in one-fourth the time required for the second election in 1957. Under new procedures laid down by the chief election commissioner, voting in 1962 will be on three days, each balloting day to be separated by 48 hours. Counting will begin only after the last ballot is cast, but should be completed within eight days of the beginning of the poll. In 1957 voting was staggered over 16 days, and another 16 days was needed to count the votes. Election officials say the speed-up has been made possible by expe-rience gained in previous elections.

Geertsema Dissents

Woodstock Board Approves $123,424 Budget for 1961

A revised budget of $123,424.28 was adopted by a 4-1 vote of the Woodstock Town Board Monday night. The figure is $11,000 lower than the preliminary estimates of $134,424.28 presented at the October 4 meeting.

The Republican majority on the board unanimously supported the budget, while Councilman Tobie Geertsema, lone Democratic member, dissented. Voting for the bugget were Supervisor Abram F. Molyneaux, Justices of the Peace Charles A. Farley and Rudi Baumgarten and Councilman John Pike.

The difference between the revised and preliminary figures is reflected in a reduction from $30,000 to $15,000 in Item 3 of the highway fund dealing with purchases of new machinery. Between the first and second meetings on the budget, a $15,000 error was discovered in the computation of anticipated increase in general assessments. This sum was deducted from the original $30,000 appropriation in Item 3.

Councilman Geertsema listed three main reasons in support of her negative vote.

1) "I cannot reconcile myself to giving my personal approval to the $15,000 appropriation in the highway machinery fund, unless it is earmarked for some definite purpose or some specific machinery purchase."

2) "Again, as last year, I disagree with the actual methods followed in drawing up the budget. I still interpret the town law as providing that the making of the budget is a project to be undertaken by the entire board as a unit.

3) "It follows that if I objected to the initial budget and its preparation, I must object just as strongly to the fact that between the preliminary reading and public hearing it was revised without the full knowledge of or consultation with the board."

According To Practice

Supervisor Molyneaux replied that the budget had been prepared according to usual practice in Woodstock. Departmental heads were asked to furnish estimates and the supervisor coordinated them. He did not comment on Councilman Geertsema's interpretation of the law on making up the budget.

Lawrence Casey, president of the Willow, Lake Hill, Shady Taxpayers Association, questioned the $15,000 appropriation in Item 3 of the highway fund and asked for what purpose the money would be used.

Supervisor Molyneaux said he was not certain about the specifics, but indicated that road superintendent Cashdollar desired a new Ford chassis worth approximately $7,000 and a Walters dump body to put on the Ford chassis. In reply to another question posed by Casey, the supervisor said the balance in the highway fund would not be known until Dec. 31, 1960.

Kiki Godwin, associate editor of the Ulster County Townsman, raised the question of law on bids for items in excess of fixed figures. Supervisor Molyneaux replied that purchase contracts of $1,000 or more and construction contracts of $2500 or more must be submitted to public bid. He also stipulated that orders for certain types of machinery must be approved by the county superintendent of highways.

Supervisor Molyneaux informed the board that the large tree in front of the town house had been removed by the state highway department.

Seek Town Records

Mrs. Bert Van Kleeck was reappointed dog warden.

The board was informed that if the purchase of another voting machine becomes necessary with the creating of a new voting district, funds from the contingency fund will be used.

New Local Horse Traces Lines to Gen. Sam Houston

Louise Van Wagonen, Bearsville's popular postmistress, has a new registered quarter horse named Amigo Lady.

What is so unusual about that? Well, Amigo Lady happens to be sired by Amigo Brown out of Rosalie Lady. The beautiful bay mare is richly bred in Peter McCue blood lines and goes back to the horse Cooperbottom that Sam Houston rode when he came to Texas and Texas A & AM College at College Station.

Amigo Lady is a 3-year-old bay mare and was purchased from Mrs. Virginia Epes Harper, Indian Field Ranch, Montauk Point, L. I. Mrs. Harper will be remembered by many Woodstockers as the owner of Champion Joe Cody which Mrs. Harper showed this June at the Woodstock Riding Club's AHSA show in June.

First recruits to turn out for the Woodstock Riding Club's cavalry troop, coached by Mrs. Patricia Jacobson, were: Joy and Dick Plaatsman, Emmy and Lloyd Gibson, Kim Chalmers, Cathy Wells, Katie Green, Rogan Graham and Eileen Desalvo. Next drill is scheduled Sunday at 2 p. m. More recruits are needed and eligible members are asked to turn out.

The Woodstock Riding Club will hold its monthly meeting Thursday at 8 p. m. All members are urged to attend.

Taxpayers Association Meets at Lake Hill

The monthly meeting of the Willow, Lake Hill, Shady Taxpayers Association will be held at the Lake Hill firehouse tonight at 8 o'clock.

All members are urged to attend as there will be a discussion on the newly adopted town budget. Other important matters of taxpayer interest are on the agenda.

Rosary-Altar Plans Listed

The monthly meeting of St. John's Rosary-Altar Society was held at St. Joan of Arc rectory in Woodstock.

Mrs. Daniel Fochi presided at the meeting and presented the new pastor, the Rev. Richard J. Stewart, who led the group in the recitation of the Rosary.

During the business meeting which followed, it was announced that the annual fashion show held in October at the Woodstock Country Club was a great success. The society is grateful to all who gave of their time and efforts in helping to make it possible. The plans for the annual Christmas party were also announced. It will be held immediately following the December meeting and all members are asked to bring a gift for exchange.

At the close of the meeting the Rev. Stewart gave a brief talk on released time education and future planning of youth activities in the parish. He also made special mention of the wonderful work the ladies of the society are doing in the fine care they are giving to the altars, linens and vestments of the parish.

Refreshments were served following the meeting. Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Lawrence Ryan, Mrs. Maurice Martin and Mrs. John Frangeli.

The next meeting will be held on December 14 in the rectory at Woodstock.

Excellent Turnout

The members of the Woodstock Post American Legion and Auxiliary 1026 wish to express their appreciation for the wonderful attendance at the turkey dinner held last Saturday night at the Bearsville Odd Fellows Hall. They also deeply regret that many people had to be turned away because the supply of food was exhausted by the unexpectedly large attendance.

Good Response

Pastor Krapf has announced that the response to the Thanksgiving clothing drive has been excellent. Between now and the Monday following Thanksgiving there is still opportunity to contribute good used clothing and closed shoes to the drive. Items may be left at the parsonage or church and will be distributed by an agency of the church to needy in 17 countries.

Last Sunday, Ronald Dana Zimmerman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald H. Zimmerman of Kingston was received into the church by the Sacrament of Baptism.

Good Pasture Season

WASHINGTON (AP)—The 1960 dairy pasture season was one of the most favorable in recent years.

Reporting this today, the Agriculture Department said pasture conditions in the April-September period averaged 84 per cent of normal, compared with 81 the year before and 80 for the 1949-58 average.

The West was the only section where pasture feed was poorer than usual.

Doctor's Draft Is To Resume, if Volunteers Fail

WASHINGTON (AP) — Drafting of doctors, unnecessary for nearly four years, will be resumed unless more young physicians volunteer for military service.

The Defense Department so notified more than 4,500 hospital interns who it said Monday have ignored application forms. They were given until Dec. 1 to complete the forms.

Dr. Frank B. Berry, assistant secretary of defense for health and medicine, said the volunteer program started in 1954 seems to have worked so well that many young doctors no longer think a draft may be in store for them.

But Berry noted that the doctor draft law extends into 1963 and said the department will not hesitate to draft 650 doctors next spring if it has to.

Broome Man Named To Antarctic Post

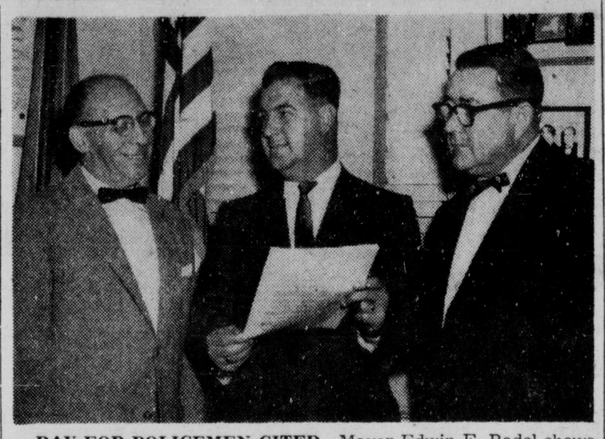

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Science Foundation today named four scientists to top posts at U. S. Antarctic stations. Two others were named as U. S. representatives for cooperative programs with Australian and Argentinian scientists.

The scientists will arrive in Antarctica this month and remain for a year to 15 months.

John E. Breckenridge of Binghamton, N. Y., will be the U. S. senior representative at Wilkes Station, where the United States and Australia are conducting joint research. Breckenridge is a meteorologist with the U. S. Weather Bureau.

Expenses $97.96

The account of a student at Mount Holyoke College, South Hadley, Mass., showed that her expenses for the year 1843-4, including tuition, transportation to Weymouth, Mass., and a trip to Boston, amounted to $97.96.

This year's honor has been conferred upon Officer John Crespino. The mayor's proclamation, issued in behalf of the entire police department asks "all citizens to give special recognition" to all officers "who are on the job insuring your safety each day of the year."

California Biggest Gainer, Pennsy Tops Losers

16 States to Lose, Nine Will Gain House Seats From Census

WASHINGTON (AP) — Twenty five states will gain or lose seats in the House of Representatives as a result of the 1960 census, the government announced Tuesday.

The Commerce Department announced that the total population of the 50 states was 179,323,175 on last April 1—the date of the once-a-decade census.

Census Up 18.5 Per Cent

That is an increase of 18.5 per cent from the 1950 total of 151,325,798.

Officials said that the total population figure would exceed 180 million once they add in servicemen, dependents, government personnel and businessmen living overseas.

The changes in congressional representation were calculated on the basis of population shifts between 1950 and 1960.

A formal report calling for realignment of the House, as provided by law, was transmitted to President Eisenhower at Augusta, Ga., by Secretary of Commerce Frederick H. Mueller.

Effective for '62 Vote

Under the reapportionment that will not take effect until the 1962 election, 16 states will lose seats in the House. Nine states will gain seats.

California will be the biggest gainer, adding eight seats to the present total of 30. Florida will get four new seats, making the new total 12. There will be gains of one seat each by Arizona, Hawaii, Maryland, Michigan, New Jersey, Ohio and Texas.

N. Y. Loses Two

The biggest loser in the prospective reapportionment will be Pennsylvania which will lose three of 30 seats. New York, Massachusetts and Arkansas will lose two seats each and the following states will lose one each: Alabama, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Maine, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska, North Carolina and West Virginia.

The losses in seats total 21 and the gains 19. This is because at present there are 437 seats in the House of Representatives, compared with the usual total of 435. The two additional seats were granted to Alaska and Hawaii after their admission as states. The total will drop to 435 after the reapportionment.

By law, the number of House seats are reapportioned every 10 years on the basis of the regular census. The reapportionment is worked out mathematically at the Census Bureau, then is sent to the secretary of commerce who transmits it to the president.

When Congress reconvenes in January, Eisenhower will inform the clerk of the House of the number of seats to which each state will be entitled in the 88th Congress which will be elected in November 1962.

The House clerk then has 15 days in which to relay this information to the governors of the 50 states. Legislatures will be responsible for changing the boundaries of congressional districts to conform to the reapportionment.

Three States, D.C. Lose

If a state gains one or more seats and the legislature fails to map new district boundaries, the additional representative or representatives will be elected at large. If a state loses and the legislature does not redistrict, all of that state's House members must be elected at large.

The final population figure for the 50 states was about 1.5 million higher than the preliminary total announced in August.

The final figures showed that three states and the District of Columbia lost population between 1950 and 1960.

West Virginia was the biggest loser. Its population dropped by 7.2 per cent. Arkansas' population was down 6.5 per cent, the District of Columbia down 4.8 per cent and Mississippi down less than 0.1 per cent.

Florida Gains Most

Florida had the biggest percentage increase during the decade—78.7 per cent. Close behind were Nevada at 78.2 per cent, Alaska 75.8, and Arizona 73.7.

In numbers, the biggest gainer was California. California's population increased by 5,130,981 to 15,717,204—a gain of 48.5 per cent.

Florida ranked second in numerical gain. Its population was up 2,180,255 to 4,951,560.

Among the four major regions of the country, the Western states showed by far the largest percentage gain—38.9 per cent. The gain in the South was 16.5 per cent; in the north-central states 16.1 per cent and northeastern 13.2 per cent.

$200,000 Damage

Yule Toys Lost In Broome Blaze

BINGHAMTON, N. Y. (AP)—A $200,000 fire destroyed thousands of Christmas toys Tuesday night.

The fire collapsed the two top floors of a four-story brick warehouse containing the toys and other hardware stored for Christmas sale. The building was at 119 Washington Street, a half block from the downtown shopping center.

No one was injured.

The Fire Bureau, which estimated the damage, said the loss in merchandise totaled $150,000.

War Orphans Are Entitled to Aid While in College

The surviving parent or guardian of minor children of members of the armed forces killed in action or who died of service incurred disabilities were reminded today by Charles L. Culver, counselor New York State Division of Veterans Affairs, and John B. Tyler, director, Ulster County Veterans Service Agency, that these children ane entitled under the War Orphans' Educational Assistance Act to financial benefits from the federal government in pursuing their educational goals.

Explaining the program, Culver and Tyler said that a child to take advantage of this opportunity must generally be between 18 and 23 years of age, inclusive, and that the act is designed principally to aid the eligible student pursue a college education. Regular high school training is not included, but certain below college level education is permissible under the Act.

Students under the Act receive $110 per month while in training which is reduced to $80 monthly for three-quarters time and to $50 for half-time training. There is an overall limitation of 36 months training and a provision prohibiting the benefits to extend beyond the recipient's 31st birthday. Marriage does not bar payment under the law.

Several thousand "war orphans" have already taken advantage of the opportunities offered under this law and are now in training under the Act. It is estimated that over 150,000 are potential eligibles, Culver Tyler continued.

Guardians and parents who have any question as to the eligibility of children to benefits under this law or to other educational benefits available to children of veterans through State and private scholarship funds are urged to get in touch with the New York State Division of Veterans Affairs and the Ulster County Veterans Service Agency office at 32 Main Street, or any of the branch offices located in Ellenville, Highland, Kerhonkson and Saugerties.

Dupes in Drug Operation Called ToGiveTestimony

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y. (AP)—An Italian couple who apparently were used as dupes in an international narcotics shipment were called to testify before a grand jury today about the scheme.

Authorities found 22 pounds of pure heroin Oct. 21 in the false bottom of a crate packed with clothing, blankets, and toys and marked as part of the baggage of Mr. and Mrs. Pietro Terrenti. The Terrentis, who arrived that day in New York City aboard the liner Saturnia from Palermo, said they knew nothing of any such crate.

They have been living under guard in a motel here with their children, a girl, 9, and a boy, 4.

Two men allegedly picked up the illegal cargo after it was unloaded from the Saturnia, and drove it in a panel truck into Westchester County. They were tailed by relays of officers, and seized in Yonkers.

Salvatore Rinaldo, 46, of Mount Vernon, and Matteo Palmeri, 49, of New York City, were arrested. They are in Westchester County jail on narcotics charges.

Expert Aid Is Available On Stretching Your Dollars

Into my hands the other day a friend thrust a sheet of paper yellowed at the edge. Printed at the top was "Budget for . . ."

This budget had been prepared for her in the depression days of the 1930s by a department store. She wanted to know who could update it for her.

It was the late Elise Stapleton, well known budget counsellor who had prepared the sheet. Are there any Elise Stapletons in business today? Where could I send my friend? If you'd like a budget drawn by an expert, where could you go?

Chances are you'd have to do the job yourself. But if you are aware of the resources in your community, you might find some excellent help.

Moving into the personal money counselling field are credit unions. In some areas there are programs currently training money management counsellors. In a few areas such trained people are already at work. At most credit unions an interview with the treasurer can provide answers to many problems.

If you belong to a credit union ask for the budget work sheet. Fill it in and return with it to the counsellor. You will be amazed at some of the suggestions you'll receive.

If possible, get a copy of the January 1960 "Credit Union Bridge." This contains helpful hints on budgeting and how to get the most from your food, shelter, clothing, medical and credit dollar. Be sure to get on the list for next year's issue.

In some areas credit unions sponsor money management classes. They are for the whole family.

When I interviewed the research director at the credit union headquarters in my town, I inquired into the chief trouble spots causing people to seek help. They are:

- High cost of food.
- Inadequate provision for meeting medical care bills.
- Inability to budget and plan spending.

We also get people overcommitted in their borrowing. He told me this often happens when a bonus is received or drastic merchandise reductions are advertised. A family will set forth intending to spend a certain amount, the cash they carry. High pressure salesmanship and their own gullibility leads them into selecting more expensive merchandise, paid for under costly credit terms.

If you don't belong to a credit union, can you get budget advice?

Working as aggressively as the credit unions is the AFL-CIO through its community activities centers. Currently in 40 areas consumer information courses are in full swing with emphasis on food planning, planning for medical care, offering suggestions on how to invest, how to buy insurance and such. The AFL-CIO also maintains consumer clinics where you can get guidance on a host of money problems.

Bankers tell me they are getting more queries regarding budgets, too. Said one:

"Our questions come from two groups of people — those having trouble living on fixed incomes and younger folk convinced their earnings will not rise fast enough to meet the rising costs of education, food and clothing."

A CARELESS SMOKER

Question: A business acquaintance of my husband and his wife were in our neighborhood the other evening and stopped in to pay us a call. Soon after their arrival, the wife took out a cigarette and started to smoke. The ash on the cigarette grew longer and longer but she made no attempt to flick it off even though there was an ash tray right beside her. I thought it was going to fall on the floor any minute, so I picked up the ash tray and handed it to her, assuming that she didn't see it. My husband thinks I embarrassed our guest by doing this. Will you please tell me if I was wrong?

Answer: It would have been more polite to have said to her, "Oh, I'm afraid that ash is going to fall on your dress" as you handed her the ash tray.

To Europe By Plane

Question: I am going to give a party for a friend who is soon taking a trip to Europe. She is going by plane. I plan to have a cake made for this party and the question has come up as to whether or not it would be proper to have "Bon Voyage" written on the cake. I say that "Bon Voyage" applies only to a trip by sea and that "Happy Landing" or something similar would be most appropriate in this instance. What is correct?

Answer: My own first choice would be "Happy Landing."

Adding Miss to Her Signature

Question: I am constantly receiving mail addressed to Mr. Jessie Brown. I am Miss. The masculine from Jessie is Jesse but apparently many people do not know this. In writing letters to people who do not know me, would it be correct for me to sign my name Miiss Jessie Brown in order to avoid confusion?

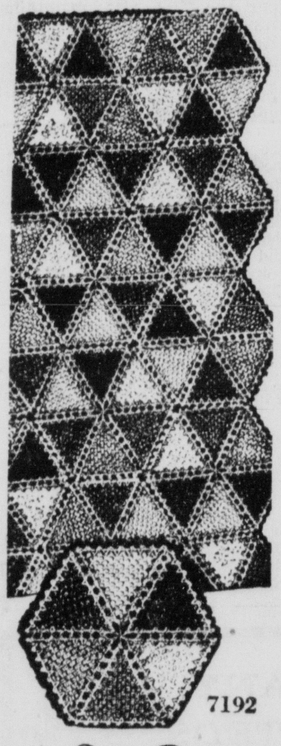

Answer: I'm sorry, but it would not be correct to sign your name Miss Jessie Brown, but you may sign your name with Miss in parenthesis following it in this way—Jessie Brown (Miss).

Stage Work Nears Completion for Annual Show; Children's Number Also Scheduled

Another gala night of music, entertainment and fun will be presented by the St. Mary's Church Choir, Saugerties on Saturday, Nov. 19 at 8:15 p. m. in the old school hall.

"Vignettes" is the title of the show and is its theme indicates, scenes of various Broadway musicals, shows, operettas and opera will be on stage.

A very thorough "face-lifting" job has been done on the old stage making it possible to give a show of this type, Merce Farrell, choir member and well known electrician, is equipping the stage with footlights and spots. The men of the choir, under the direction of Eugene LaPlante, stage director, and Donald Gardner, technical advisor, have been volunteering long hours of work on sets, painting, and other countless tasks. The distaff side has aided with needle and thread under the direction of Betty Saban.

With the Herculean task of stage work almost completed, the choir is now applying finishing touches to its show.

More than 20 children who, in the past, have been on the sidelines watching their parents rehearse, will be brought into the show this year with a number of their own.

It has also been announced that two guests will be featured, Willet Overbaugh of Saugerties, baritone, and Virginia Mancuso, mezzo-soprano of Kingston.

A member of Lyric Choristers, and past officer of the group, Mrs. Mancuso resides with her husband, Peter, and two children, Rosemary, 5, and Peter, 9, at 171 West Chester Street. She is a favorite soloist for weddings, receptions and special occasions. She was also a featured soloist in the premiere performance of a religious cantata, "Via Crucis" given last April at St. Peter's Church in Kingston.

Because of the limited seating capacity, requests for tickets should be made early. Tickets are now available from members of the choir and will be sold at the door the night of the show.

There will be dancing afterwards.

Featured in solo parts will be Arthur Schoen, Walter Nealy, Rita Gavigan, Robert Rightmyer, Regina Hennigan, John (Brick) Hill, Donald Gardner, Eugene LaPlante, Leonard Gilmore, Jane Simon, Betty Saban, Merce Farrell, Nina Zietek, and others.

Also in the cast will be Peg Wilsey, Ann Scalz, Jean Wood, Barbara Schultz, Mary Pat Gavigan, Roseann Dooley, Pamela LaPlante, Bill Maines, Mrs. Frank Ruddy, Hilda Galietta, Anthony Pizzarelli and Peter Mathews.

Stephen Baran and Ted Freligh will be featured in specialty acts.

Mrs. Mary Bunyar, choir member, is providing musical assistance and will be accompanist for several selections that Saturday. Mrs. June LaPlante will also be at the piano.

Some of the children in the show will be Jill Gardner, Brian Nealy, Donna and Debra Gardner, Mary Kay Wilsey, Lorie Zietek, Sandra and Karen Rightmyer, Michael Baran, John Bunyar, Gail Gardner, Marie Ruddy, Paula LaPlante, Barbara Nerel, Nin Zietek, Donna Ruddy, Joan Gilmore, Amelia Narel, Kathleen Bunyar and Robert Rightmyer.

Art Director Has Paintings Put On Exhibition

Several paintings by Stefan Hirsch, head of the Art Department at Bard College, Annandale-on-Hudson, are on exhibition at the Walker Art Center, Minneapolis, Minn. Among these is the Duncan Phillips' "Manhattan", from the museum in Washington—one of the best-known paintings of the modern period. The exhibition, one of the most important and affirmative in American art, concentrates on the period between 1920 and 1945 and presents the somewhat abstract architectural direction so dominant at that time, and the most important people of that period. It will also travel to the Whitney Museum of American Art, the Detroit Institute of Art, the San Francisco Museum of Art and the Los Angeles County Museum.

Mr. Hirsch's paintings and graphic art have been shown extensively in many outstanding galleries in the country and are represented in the Metropolitan, Whitney, Newark, Los Angeles, Seattle, Dartmouth College Museums, Phillips Memorial Gallery and the Corcoran Gallery. Professor Hirsch was Fulbright Lecturer at the University of Baroda, India, in 1956-57; member of the board of directors of the College Art Association, an officer of the Hamilton Easter Field Foundation and has been chairman of the Arts Division at Bennington College.

Swedish Princesses Meet The Press On New York Visit

NEW YORK (AP) — Princesses Birgitta and Desiree of Sweden had their first news conference since arriving in America, and after it was over one of them sighed:

"It is very difficult, and so many people."

Some of the newsmen's questions Tuesday had them giggling. Others brought on whispered consultations in Swedish in hopes of finding a diplomatic answer.

With them was Swedish Ambassador Gunnar Jarring. He steered the conversation safely away from politics and sentimental topics.

The girls liked "everything" about their visit, which began here a week ago. They liked Chicago, New York, Philadelphia and Wilmington, Del.—equally.

They called former President Harry S. Truman, whom they met in Chicago, 'a very charming man."

Yes, they have done some shopping. "Oh, no, not for clothes," but phonograph record albums.

Birgitta, 23, and Desiree, 22, both like American men. Asked why, Birgitta answered:

"Everyone is so different, so you can't say why."

They also toured the new Colomon R. Guggenheim Museum and the Metropolitan Museum of Art. They were guests of honor at a luncheon at the Metropolitan.

Late in the day, the American Scandinavian Foundation gave a reception for the princesses at the Metropolitan Club.

Lithgow Osborne, president of the Foundation, presented them a new publication, "The History of Swedish Literature," by Alrik Gustafson. The Foundation is celebrating its 50th anniversary this year.

After the reception, there was a private dinner at the Plaza Hotel given for the princesses by Mr. and Mrs. Osborne.

Osborne, former ambassador to Norway, is vice president of the Auburn (N. Y.) Citizen-Advertiser.

The princesses leave for Sweden Thursday.

Canger-Bartells Wedding Is Announced; Exchange Vows Before Nuptial Mass

MR. AND MRS. JOHN J. BARTELLS
(Johnstone photo)

SAUGERTIES — Miss Sondra Ann Canger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Canger of Ulster Avenue, Saugerties, and John J. Bartells, son of Mrs. Anna Bartells of Second Street, Saugerties, were wed in a double ring ceremony on Saturday, Nov. 12, before an 11 o'clock nuptial Mass at St. Mary's of the Snow Church in Saugerties.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Austin V. Carey, chaplain of the Benedictine Hospital, officiated. Mrs. Aleksander Narel was organist and soloist for the occasion. She sang "Ave Maria," "Mother at Thy Feet Is Kneeling," "On This Day," and "O Perfect Love." The bride placed a colonial bouquet at the altar of the Blessed Mother. Beauty baskets of white gladioli were arranged at the side of the altar, with pompons on the altar. Satin bows marked the family pews.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a gown of bridal satin which featured a scoop neckline, long tapered sleeves, fitted bodice, dome shaped skirt with bustle effect forming a chapel train. Lace scroll appliques with pearls added a distinct touch to the bodice and skirt. A triple tiered French imported silk illusion veil secured to a Queen's crown of pearls and rhinestones completed her attire. She carried a cascade bouquet of lily-of-the-valley and swansonia around an orchid center.

Miss Winifred Canger was her sister's maid of honor. Her gown was of sky blue and jewel blue crystal back satin, princess style, with a full sweeping floor length skirt. Her queen's crown of braid and aurora borealis blue held a circular veil to match her gown. She carried a cascade bouquet of blue carnations.

Serving as bridesmaids were Miss Margaret Morgan and Miss Peggy Naccarato, both of Saugerties. Their gowns were identical to the maid of honor's and they carried cascade bouquets of white and shades of blue carnations.

Mrs. Canger, mother of the bride, was dressed in emerald green satin with beige accessories and carried a corsage of glamellias. The bridegroom's mother was attired in beige lace with matching accessories and her corsage was of yellow roses.

Leonard Sweeney of Slingerlands, N. Y. was best man for Mr. Bartells, and ushers were William Peter of Saugerties and Gerard Brice of Lake Hill.

A reception for 170 guests was held at the Flamingo following the ceremony.

For their wedding trip to New York City and a tour through the Southern states, the bride left in a traveling suit of brown tweed with autumn green accessories and wore the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

Mrs. Bartells is a graduate of St. Mary's of the Snow School, Saugerties, and St. Patrick's Academy, Catskill. She is employed by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. in Kingston.

Mr. Bartells is also a graduate of St. Mary's school, and Saugerties High School. He served two years with the U.S. Army in Germany and is now an employe of IBM.

Two decades ago, 7,000 children died every year of whooping cough. Last year, only 310 children died of whooping cough. What explains the difference? It's the new wonder drugs—unknown two decades ago. Priceless drugs? Sure! Yet the price of the average prescription hasn't gone up any more in 20 years than has the price of a pound of coffee.

Cases Are Heard In County Court

After a jury had been selected in County court to hear charges of criminally possessing a pistol and petit larceny, Paul W. F. Growe, who has a summer place in Ulster County, entered a plea Tuesday afternoon to Violation of Section 43, a misdemeanor. Sentence will be imposed Monday at 2 p. m.

Growe, employed by a New York City man, allegedly took a pistol owned by his employer. He claimed he had borrowed the pistol for target practice. However, unable to use it he mailed it back to the owner who then brought charges against Growe. Growe was represented by Charles Saccoman and Joseph J. Qualtere. The plea was acceptable to Assistant District Attorney James Murray, who appeared for the prosecution.

Peter Buckman, charged with pool selling and bookmaking paid a $100 fine. Frank Campochiaro appeared for defendant.

Anthony Alvaro, 52, Kinnelon, N. J., charged with burglary, third degree, unlawful entry and grand larceny, first degree, was arraigned and entered a plea of innocent. Ten days were granted for motions to his attorney Charles Saccoman.

Sandor Zoldy, 20, Gardiner, entered a plea of guilty to petit larceny and was given a year in jail which was suspended. A grand larceny charge was dismissed on motion of Richard W. Griggs, assigned counsel.

Charles Augustus Curry, 24, High Falls, was sentenced to 145 days in jail, the time he had served, when he pleaded to petit larceny. A grand larceny charge was dismissed on motion of his counsel Ward Ingalsbe. Curry was placed on probation.

Gerald Leslie Proper, 19, Mt. Marion, was given a year in jail which was suspended on his plea of guilty to third degree assault. A second degree assault charge was dismissed on motion of Louis DiDonna. Proper was placed on probation.

Other Matters

Margaret Galloway was given 30 days in jail for criminally possessing a pistol. Thomas Saccoman appeared for defendant.

Richard Treat, 17, Stockton, Calif., charged with grand larceny, elected to be treated under the Youthful Offender statute and will be held for Military Police on an AWOL charge. James Matthews appeared by assignment.

There were several cases on the criminal calendar which will be disposed of under the Youthful Offender statute. Among them were:

Donald Paul Maxwell, charged with burglary, third degree, unlawful entery and petit larceny. N. LeVan Haver for defendant.

Kenneth Francis White, burglary, third degree, unlawful entry and second degree grand larceny. Francis Martocci for defendant.

Joseph Frederick Schickey, burglary, third degree, unlawful entry, and petit larceny. James Abernethy appeared for defendant.

Drexel F. Goodwin, grand larceny, second degree. Thomas Saccoman for defendant.

Joseph Frank DeGroodt, grand larceny, first degree.

Robert Edward O'Connor, grand larceny, first degree.

Carol Krajeski, grand larceny, first degree. William P. Curran appeared for defendant.

Gary Lewis, assault, second degree. Thomas Saccoman appeared for defendant.

Ronald David Robinson, burglary, third degree, unlawful entry and petit larceny. Ernest Schirmer appeared for defendant.

All of the Youthful Offender cases will be disposed of at chambers.

There were two arraignments under charges of violation of Section 970, violations of the gambling law. James Hill and Dell Jackson, both represented by William P. Curran, entered pleas of innocent to the charge. Ten days was granted for motions.

Denies Kennedy Has No Mandate With Close Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — Organized labor leadership says that President-elect John F. Kennedy's scant victory margin in no way lessens his responsibility to carry out the Democratic platform.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, said as much at a banquet Tuesday night. He took issue with those who say that the closeness of the vote means Kennedy really has no mandate from the people. These expressions, he said, come uniformly from anti-Kennedy people.

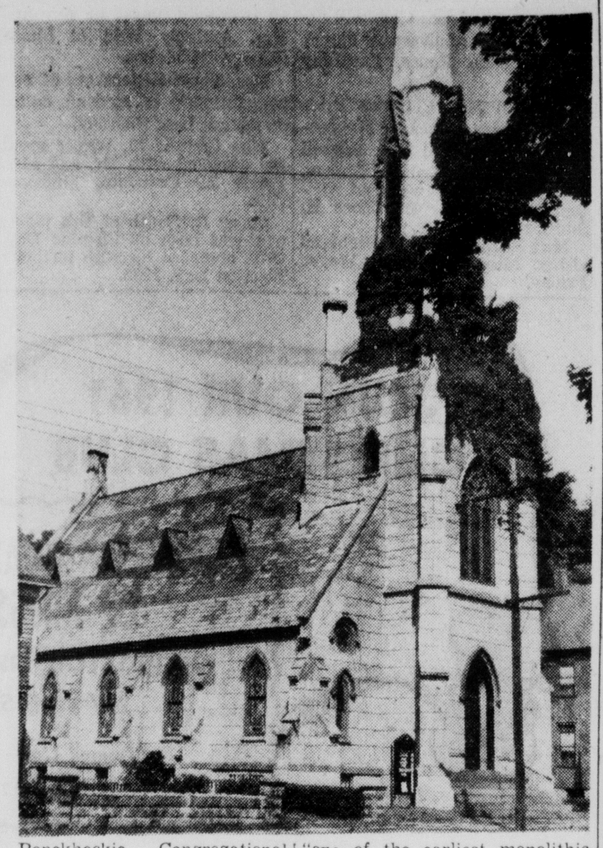

"This might be a good time to set out the AFL-CIO position," Meany said. "We feel we supported a candidate who ran on a political platform. We know what's in that platform because we helped draft it."

"As far as we're concerned, we expect the successful candidate to carry out that platform in the days ahead when he takes over his job as president of the United States," Meany said.

Meany thus expresses insistence that the AFL-CIO—having given all-out support to Kennedy first for the nomination then during the campaign — expects Democratic platform pledges to be carried out fully.

The AFL-CIO's Industrial Union Department said in a published article that the policies of President Eisenhower's administration have been "directed toward curbing the unions" and it is time to restore collective bargaining "as a cornerstone of national policy."

Ponckhockie Church to Mark Anniversaries This Weekend

Ponckhockie Congregational Church will be celebrating a joint anniversary this weekend. The building was constructed 90 years ago, and the church was incorporated 45 years ago this month.

Charter members of the church, which was organized Nov. 7, 1915, will be honored guests at a dinner Saturday 6 p. m. at the church.

Forefathers Day will be observed at the 11 a. m. Sunday worship service. Service form used by the Pilgrims will be recreated.

A service of rededication at 4:30 p. m. will be followed by an open house and refreshments. Former pastors of the church will take part in the service.

Building Constructed in 1870

Early in 1854 the men and women of Ponckhockie organized a Sunday school which met at various buildings until 1870. At that time the Newark Lime and Cement Co. constructed the present building at 93 Abruyn Street and dedicated it to the children of Ponckhockie. The building, "one of the earliest monolithic poured concrete structures in America," is still visited by architects because of its uniqueness.

An interesting feature of the building is that the architect included specifications for a "built-in" air conditioner. There are two air channels which run length-wise, from the back to the front of the church. Another interesting feature of the church is that it is a copy of the Dutch Reformed Church, Newark, N. J., which in turn is a copy of the former University Presbyterian Church, New York City.

The Chapel was a busy place Sunday after Sunday as the scholars came for their afternoon instructions. In 1915, the Rev. F. W. Moot, of Schenectady, came to Kingston and surveyed the Ponckhockie area as a possible site for a church. Through his efforts, and the efforts of some of the charter members still living, the church was organized and held its first service of worship in November of that year. The Rev. Mr. Moot was eventually called to serve as the first pastor. The present pastor is the Rev. Henry M. Hansen.

Budget Approved For Greene Co.

After a five-hour hearing and a three hour session of the Greene County board of supervisors, the 1961 budget of $3,489,361.91 was approved.

An appropriation of $17,160 to set up a Mental Health Clinic was left out of the budget by a deadlocked vote of 7 to 7. The Assessor Coordinator was approved by a 9 to 4 vote with one member abstaining. Approval was given new department, Assessment Department, with a $7,000 appropriation.

The new budget calls for raising $898,677.84 through local taxes, a drop of $11,651.42 under the 1960 budget.

Disapproval of the mental health item came when Supervisor Angelo Canna, Cairo, switched his vote. Last week he was one of eight to include the appropriation in the budget. High taxes were given as his reason for changing his vote. He had also said his earlier action was based on the idea that the mental health clinic request be given a full hearing.

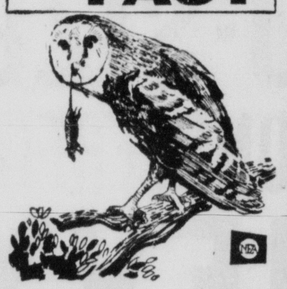

When opposition developed, Canna voted against. The principal opposition was that mental health was not the province of the local government at the expense of taxpayers. Proponents argued that there was need for this low cost service, especially for children.

Trooper Halts Thruway Auto, Finds Marijuna

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—A suspicious state trooper said he stopped three men traveling the Thruway today and found a half-ounce of pure marijuana in a paper bag.

The three, including a U. S. Navy seaman, were held on felony charges of narcotics possession.

They were identified as Jack H. Farrell, 26, of Alamedo, Calif., Marvin Kinkle, 21, of Oakland, Calif., and Clifford P. Workman, 22, the seaman, of Wellesley Hills, Mass.

Troopers said the three were driving east to Workman's home, presumably from California.

A half ounce of marijuana might be worth $50 or more or less, in this country, depending upon supply and demand.

The new national state house lineup, see Newschart, will be 34 Democrats and 16 Republicans compared to last year's 33-17.

Soviets Are Waiting Now For Kennedy

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The Soviet Union wrote off the Eisenhower administration as a disarmament bargainer Tuesday night and made clear she will only do business with the incoming Kennedy government.

Valerian Zorin, Soviet deputy foreign minister, sparked an angry retort from the U. S. ambassador who called Moscow's position an unjustified interference in the internal affairs of the United States.

Faces Dead End

The exchange made clear to delegates that the current General Assembly's attempt to resolve the arms deadlock faces a dead end.

Zorin and U. S. Ambassador James J. Wadsworth clashed in the political committee after the Soviet delegate threw his support behind a compromise resolution submitted by India and co-sponsored by a group of uncommitted nations.

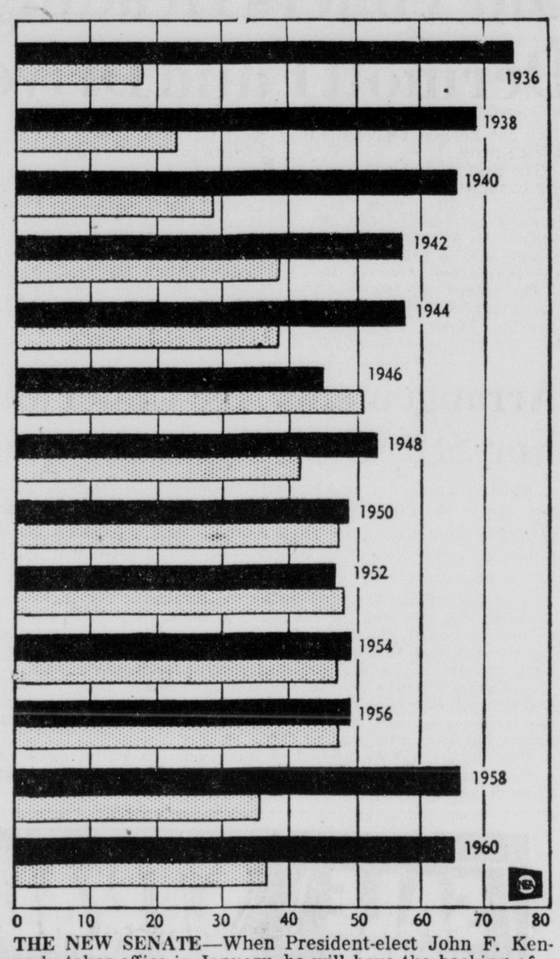

Zorin said the resolution presented by India's V. K. Krishna Menon had its faults, but that it presented the best hope for solution of the disarmament deadlock.

Asks Clarity, Balance

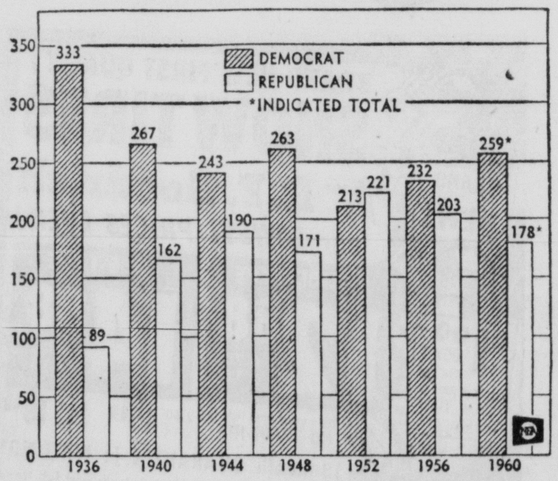

Wadsworth countered that the Indian proposal was unacceptable unless it was changed to make it clearer and give it more balance. The United States favors many parts of the resolution, he said, but feels it would "tie the hands of negotiators when they sit down at the table."

In view of the position taken by Wadsworth Zorin said the only solution was a spring session of the assembly on the arms issue at the summit level.

Zorin expressed hope President-Elect John F. Kennedy's incoming administration would "seriously ponder this" and take steps at the spring session to make agreement on disarmament possible.

THE NEW SENATE—When President-elect John F. Kennedy takes office in January, he will have the backing of a strong Democratic majority in the Senate. The Republicans elected 13 senators, the Democrats 21. The new Senate will be comprised of 36 Republicans, 64 Democrats. In 11 of the last 13 Congresses (Newschart)—1946 and 1952 excepted—Democrats have been the party in power.

HOUSE LINE-UP—Democrats lost 24 seats to Republicans in the new House of Representatives but the former still hold an indicated total of 259 seats against 178 for their opponents. Democrats lead in two, Republicans in three of the still undecided races. Newschart shows results of House elections in presidential election years beginning with Franklin D. Roosevelt's landslide victory in 1936. Last time Republicans controlled the House was in 1952.

Have Long Terms

E. Baylor Scores 71 Markers

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

"Give it to Baylor. Give it to Baylor."

That's the cry basketball fans took up in Madison Square Garden Tuesday night after Elgin Baylor of the Los Angeles Lakers scored his 59th point against the New York Knicks to break the Garden in lividual high scoring mark for one game in the National Basketball Association.

About six minutes were left to play and the fans wanted Baylor to break the NBA record high of 64 points for one game that Baylor himself had set little over a year ago, Nov. 8, 1959, against the Boston Celtics.

Break it the former Seattle All-America did. He finished with 71 points on 28 field goals on 48 attempts and 15 of 19 free throws. When he was taken out with 28 seconds left he received an ovation.

Elgin Baylor

It was incidental that Los Angeles beat the Knicks 123-108 in the feature of the Garden doubleheader after the Detroit Pistons had wiped out a 20-point deficit to beat the Boston Celtics 115-114 in overtime.

Oscar Hits 44

Baylor's feat also overshadowed the 44 points scored by Oscar Robertson in Cincinnati's 124-115 victory over Philadelphian the Warriors' second straight defeat after a nine-game winning streak.

"I got very nervous when they announced I had set a Garden record at 59 points," Baylor said in the dressing room. "They tried to feed me so much when the crowd started chanting that I asked the boys to let me make my own plays."

He scored 34 of his 71 points in the first half.

MEET THE GANDERS — Rondout Valley gridders finished the season with a 4-1-2 mark and in a triple tie for the Ulster County league championship with New Paltz and Onteora. So Quick Is Winner Of Feature at Yonkers

YONKERS, N. Y. (AP) — So Quick, driven by Joe Macdonald closed powerfully in the stretch to whip Silver's Dream by a head in Tuesday night's feature $2,800 Pleasantville Pace at Yonkers Raceway. Time for the mile was 2:04 4-5. Owned by the Wheatley Hills stable of Westbury, N. Y., the 5-year-old son of Chief Counsel, returned $8.50. Royal Scotchman finished third.

Woodstock, Franks Win 'Y' Cage Games

Two close games were featured in the YMCA B Cage league last night. Frank's nipped Spada's, 49-47, and Woodstock Sports Shop won, 38-35, over Byrne Chevvies.

Tom Cragan hit on a keyhole jump shot with four seconds remaining to win it for Frank's. He finished the evening with 22 points while Bruce Ruffner led both clubs with 25 markers.

The Chevvies had a chance to clinch the championship but are now in a three way battle for the top spot with Woodstock and Hub Delicatessen.

With 2:30 remaining, a jump shot by Bruce Wiederspiel shoved the winners ahead, 37-32. Then Fred Orr sank a brace of fouls to close the gap to three points at 37-34. John Burris added a foul shot for the losers to narrow the margin to a basket but with 12 seconds left, Bob Kaiser sank a free throw to clinch the decision.

Burris had 12 points for the Chevvies and Wiederspiel's 11 markers topped the winners.

Dutchess Old Timers Heading Maury McDermott Fund Drive

The Dutchess County Old Timers Baseball Association have initiated a movement for a "Maury McDermott Get Well Benefit Fund," according to Steve Waryas, president of the group.

McDermott is the one-time Poughkeepsie star first baseman-pitcher, and also played for several seasons with the Kingston Colonials. He is the father of Mickey McDermott, former major league pitcher.

Waryas has named a committee headed by Edward Terpening as chairman to map plans for the drive to raise funds to help McDermott recover from injuries sustained in a fall several months ago.

Hudson valley baseball fans who remember McDermott as one of the all time area greats were not aware of the extent of his injuries, Waryas said. The injuries parallel those of Roy Campanella and at present McDermott is in a Haverstraw hospital, paralyzed through the arms and hands and from the waist down.

The initial meeting of the steering committee for the McDermott fund was held at the Exempt Firemen's Association in Poughkeepsie. At this session, Edwin Terpening was named general chairman, with Fred Stitzel, president of the Poughkeepsie Recreation Commission, and James Dykman, co-chairmen. John Babiarz, of the Poughkeepsie baseball club in the NY-NJ League, will serve as secretary of the group. George Dutcher, a director of the Poughkeepsie team, will be the treasurer.

Committee Enlarged

In order to assure any donors that all funds raised will be used solely for the purpose to help McDermott recover as quickly as possible, three prominent Poughkeepsie citizens will be asked to serve on the auditing committee.

Groups already represented on the committee include, besides the Dutchess County Old Timers; Poughkeepsie Hoe-Bowl Club, Ed Terpening, John Babiarz, George Dutcher; representing the New York - New Jersey Baseball League are Charles J. Tiano, president; Fred Davi, Sal Ciaccio, Joseph Gallio; the Interstate League; and the Poughkeepsie Twilight League represented by Fred Stitzel.

The first move by the organizing committee will be a gigantic, Hudson Valley wide meeting Sunday afternoon, Nov. 20, at which time individuals and groups will be asked to serve on the committee.

The format for the fund campaign will be decided at Sunday's meeting. However, initial plans call for a huge "Maury McDermott Get Well Sports Night" to be held around the middle of December.

In the meantime, the Dutchess County Old Timers have started to solicit funds by selling get well cards which will be mailed to McDermott at the Haverstraw Rehabilitation Hospital. Anyone wishing to make a contribution may mail it to the Maury McDermott Get Well Fund, P. O. Box 331, Poughkeepsie.

St. Bonaventure Selects Captains

OLEAN, N. Y. (AP)—St. Bonaventure University's offensive rifle, Tom Stith, and defensive ace, Whitey Martin, have been named co-captains of this year's basketball squad.

Stitch, who averaged 31.5 points per game in leading the Bonnies to a 21-5 season last year, was named to the Associated Press second team All - America. He trailed Cincinnati's Oscar Robinson in the race among the major college scorers last season.

Martin, known as the "thief" because of his defensive quickness, also averaged 13 points a game.

Stith is from New York, while Martin is a resident of Buffalo.

Arrangements Are Underway For SHS Grid Team Banquet

Arrangements are underway for the gala banquet, scheduled Nov. 30, at the Flamingo Restaurant, Route 9W, which will honor the undefeated Saugerties High football team. Chairman Joe DiDomenico of the Saugerties Jaycees said that a prominent speaker will be obtained for the event.

Trophies will be awarded to the most valuable player, the outstanding lineman and the outstanding back. The MVP trophy is an annual award, donated by the Saugerties Post. Players receiving the trophies will be selected by a secret ballot of the team. Each member of the Sawyers will receive individual awards.

Assisting DiDomenico on the committtee are Harry Clawson, Bob Schnell, Ben Rinaldi and Whitey Mecionis. A presentation fund has been set up and the public is invited to contribute. The response has been excellent to date.

The dinner will be limited to 250 people on a first come, first served basis. Reservations may be made and tickets acquired through any member of the committee.

Missouri, Iowa Teams Are Selected to Win

By DON WEISS
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Just like coach Claassen! Builds his percentage over .725, then takes off for some sun-drenched beachcombing, leaving someone else to take a chill with his football picks.

A 36-13-1 record last week made grandpa's over-all percentage a sprightly .729 on a 318-118 won-lost mark.

Well, someone once called persistence a virtue, so it'll be like this in college football this weekend:

Missouri over Kansas: The alumni association is still pressing for that dues check, but this one is based on merits. Any Tiger bunch that can beat Oklahoma can beat Kansas—at least 7-6.

Minnesota over Wisconsin: The goons who were after Murray Warmath's wig settle for an 8-1 season and a tie for the Big Ten title.

Iowa over Notre Dame: The guy who gets the Irish award is the one who had the foresight to schedule California for Notre Dame's opener. He shoulda quit there. Flashing Iowa makes it eight straight Notre Dame losses.

Duke over North Carolina: On to the Orange Bowl.

Arkansas over Texas Tech: Tech's E. J. Holub can't tackle 'em all. The Hogs toward the Cotton Bowl.

Yale over Harvard: Any given day, sez Princeton's Dick Colman, the unbeaten Eli can whip anyone.

Washington over Washington State: Next to the Big Five title and a RoseBowl bid, Washington likes beating State best.

Penn State over Pitt: Play-it-safe Pitt doesn't get a chance to tie this time.

Grid Briefs From Upstate

HAMILTON, N. Y. (AP) — The Colgate football team, hit by a sudden wave of illness, cut short Tuesday's practice session.

College officials attributed the illness to unseasonably warm weather. They said they did not expect the players to be out long.

Those who did turn out practiced in the fieldhouse rather than on a muddy field.

Colgate's opponent Saturday is Brown at Providence, R. I.

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—Syracuse's Orangemen got an early taste Tuesday of Miami weather. The team practiced their passing in temperatures that rose into the 60s.

Syracuse clashes with Miami Friday night in the Florida city.

ITHACA, N. Y. (AP) — Cornell's football team held a light practice Tuesday and then adjourned to the locker-room for a report on Pennsylvania, its Thanksgiving Day rival.

The Big Red is concentrating on defenses to combat the Quaker's single-wing attack.

Illustrious Dads

BALTIMORE (NEA) — Four juvenile fillies owned by C. V. Whitney are daughters of stallions which were Horse-of-the-Year. Bright Silver and Dance Rhythm are by Native Dancer, Honey Bear and Daughter by Counterpoint.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO

Chris Gallo's repeater in the area All Star eliminations furnished further evidence that the smooth wheeling star could be the No. 1 bowler in Kingston at the moment.

One victory in the All Star might be construed as a fluke by anyone; two in a row is something else again, mostly quality and staying power under pressure.

In reviewing the 1960 format employed by the Hudson Valley Bowling Proprietors Association, we sometimes got the feeling it was created by the masters of the Spanish Inquisition. Certainly, there must be a shorter, less arduous method of determining a winner.

Phil Versace's first place finish ahead of Gallo doesn't minimize the significance of Chris' accomplishment. Through the first 15 games of Sunday's marathon, Gallo exploded a 223 average with high slams of 256, 276, 247 and 245.. Versace, averaging 221, had highs of 267, 269, 246 and 244. It was noticeable that in their final, two-game, head-to-head encounter, both dropped off sharply in performance, due to a combination of pressure and fatigue.

Either of these talented sharpshooters can go a long way in the National All Star at San Bernardino, Calif., in January.

• The Eleventh Frame:

Did you notice that Johnny Ferraro finished dead last in the Petersen point standings in the eliminations. Is The Ace washed up? Hardly, but he has had better years . . . It happens to the best department: Chris Gallo, a 128 in the Major; Rose Schatzel, all-time Hudson Valley League low, a 444 for her. . . . Strong comebackers: Bill Phillips, 135-212-212; Bob Enright, 147-221-215, and Bob Van Valkenburgh rolled a 169 triplicate in the Merchants League at New Paltz. Bowling may soon replace the famous blanket toss as the favorite sport of the Northwester Alaska Eskimos. . . . A six-lane establishment featuring Brunswick equipment and automatic pinsetters is under construction in Nome and is certain to qualify as one of the northernmost bowling centers in the world. And there's not much danger of this new ecstablishment being confused by any other center. It will be known as the Aukruk Lanes which is an Eskimo term with a loose translation "to roll a ball" and not to be confused with mukluk, which everyone knows. . . . An 18-year-old Dwaarill youth, Edward Wuelfing, recently rolled a perfect 300 score, near Walden. The kid followed with 149-123 and joined that exclusive club of bowlers who have rolled a 300 and failed to reach 600 in the same series.

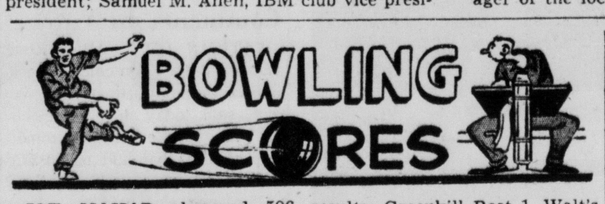

• The Distaff Department:

A salute to Evelyn Dolson, one of the perennial pros who has hammered seven 500 triples in her last 10 outings. . . . Newcomers to the Chalet Pioneer Women's League 400 club are Helena Erceg and Peggy Auchmoody. . . . Ditto for June Kolts in the Matinee Club. . . . Betty Saban and Shirley Carlino have been assigned by Nell Glennon to handle publicity for the Kingston Woman's Bowling Association. . . . The KWBA cocktail party Sunday at the Clinton revealed the vigorous planning and preparation the local gals are making for the 1962 state tournament. Although the shindig is two seasons away, the convention and tournament machinery is clicking merrily and $3,500 has been earmarked for promotion. . . . The 1961 NYSWBA tournament opens March 17 at the Beverly Ross Lanes in Niagara Falls. Entries close January 17, but reserved dates must be confirmed with fees by Dec. 15. . . . Francis X. Turck, KBA president, told the KWBA cocktail crowd that the men's association will place a bid for the state tournament at the next convention, probably for four or five years hence. . . . Recognizing the increasing stature of bowling on the American scene, Vogue magazine in its November issue devotes four pages to the sport in an article on bowling fashions and fashionable bowlers. "These aren't still the dog days of bowling," said the magazine, "judging from recent reports of pastel bowling balls, nurseries with baby sitters appended to bowling centers—as well as swimming pools and patios." Bowling uses up more calories per minute than rowing or tennis and ranks only second to swimming. It keeps muscles in their place, firm and disciplined, setting blood circulation in a vigorous rosy path through the body. Faster than some of the other figure-taming sports, bowling can be grasped in its bare fundamentals after about 15 minutes of instruction.

The magazine also cites a woman bowler's improved figure, "lithe as a whippet and firm, partly because of the game." Wow, does bowling do all that!

Gary Collins Is Lineman of Week

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

With 65 seconds left, Gary Collins caught a forward pass from quarterback Dale Betty and raced over for the winning touchdown in Maryland's 22-19 victory over North Carolina last Saturday.

That play clinched Lineman of the Week honors today for the lanky Maryland end in the weekly Associated Press poll of sports writers and broadcasters.

The winning touchdown capped a tremendous game by Collins, a 6-3, 200-pound junior from Williamstown, Pam He smeared North Carolina plays time and again. At one stage, when Maryland put on a goal-line stand, he made three of the four tackles that stopped the Tar Heels on the 2.

On another occasion he made five consecutive tackles, on three of them dumping the ball carrier for a loss. In addition he punted for a 36.5 yard average.

Kansas City Club Sold to a Broker

CHICAGO (AP) — Formal sale of the Kansas City Athletics' baseball club to a St. Louis syndicate headed by investment broker Elliot Stein was scheduled today.

Probate Judge Robert J. Dunne ordered the sale Tuesday for a reported $3.5 million after an out-of-court agreement had been reached by co-executors of the estate of Arnold Johnson, who owned 52 per cent of the club before his death last March 10.

Mrs. Warren W. Humes, remarried widow of Johnson, and the City National Bank of Chicago —co-executors of Johnson's estate —had disagreed what was to be done with the stock.

Mrs. Humes wished to retain the 52 per cent but the bank insisted it be sold in order to pay taxes and debts of $1.5 million on Johnson's estate.

Majors Expansion in N. Y., Los Angeles Is Facing a Snag

By ED CORRIGAN

NEW YORK (AP)—The American League goes into its expansion meeting Thursday with baseball Commissioner Ford Frick casting a skeptical eye on its plans and Congress threatening to take antimonopoly action if a club isn't placed in Los Angeles.

The league wants to place a team in Los Angeles next year and will work on an attempt to complete the proposal and put it to the joint major league meeting in St. Louis on Dec. 7.

Rule 1 of the major league agreement which prohibits the invasion of territory of one league by the other without the unanimous approval of both leagues, will come up for amendment. The American League is expected to propose the amendment and the National probably will veto it. That leaves the deciding vote in Frick's hands.

Wants a Fair Plan

Frick said he would not vote for the amendment unless "a fair and workable plan is agreed upon by both leagues."

He obviously was referring to the Hank Greenberg syndicate which intends to operate in Los Angeles. Frick maintained that Walter O'Malley, who moved the Dodgers to Los Angeles, has spent about a million dollars for the shift and is entitled to get some of it back from any AL team that wishes to share the territory.

"Greenberg's outfit wants to pay nothing, do nothing," said Frick. "I won't stand for it."

If the matter cannot be resolved in time to open the '61 season, there is a possibility that the AL might operate with only nine teams—the old seven, plus the new franchise in Washington and the former Washington club in St. Paul-Minneapolis.

The specter of government action loomed. Sen. Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., chairman of the antimonopoly committee, warned against any delay in expansion.

Congress will regulate baseball as strictly a business in interstate commerce if the baseball people break faith with my committee and the public," he said.

COLT HERO—Johnny Unitas, quarterback of the Baltimore Colts, was bruised on nose and lip received in play against Chicago Nov. 13 in game in which he tossed game winning touchdown pass with less than a minute to play. The final score was Baltimore 24, Chicago 20. Shown in Baltimore Nov. 15, Unitas still has bruises to remind him of the tough victory. (AP Wirephoto)

Giambra Scores Over Calhoun

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Joey Giambra, satisfied that he has swept away the ring rust of five months inactivity, wants "to keep fighting" and improve his rating in boxing's middleweight division.

The Buffalo-born boxer shed the rustiness in the late stages Tuesday night to score a come-from-behind split-decision over Rory Calhoun in Memorial Auditorium.

Polishing off the rugged scrapper from White Plains, Giambra once again displayed his classic boxing style as he continually flicked his stinging left jab into Calhoun's face and body.

But he had gotten off to a slow start and the decision was met with a round of boos from the crowd of 3,949 that paid $11,762 for the privilege.

Later in his dressing room, Giambra said he figured it was "all-even" after the eighth round and his flurry finish paid the dividend.

Calhoun's handlers felt that their fighter had won the third meeting between the two.

"They gave it to Giambra on a 10 second rally," one of the loser's trainers said.

The victory evened the series, Calhoun having won one and the other ending in a draw.

Giambra, weighing 157½, recorded his 61st victory in 67 fights. Calhoun, who weighed 161, now has a career mark of 43 victories, 11 loses and two draws.

Judges Lou Goldstein and Dick Fay scored it 6, 3 and 1 even for Giambra while referee Lou Scozza said it 5, 4 and 1 even for Calhoun. The AP card gave it to Giambra 6-4.

Tony La Barbara of Buffalo stopped Johnny Fischetti of Brooklyn in 1:58 of the fourth round of their scheduled six-round semi-final. La Barbara, unbeaten in 10 starts, weighed 131½, while the Brooklyn boy weighed 134.

Offense Leaders Play Last Games

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Mel Melin of Washington State and Harold Stephens of Hardin-Simmons, the nation's total offense and passing leaders in major college football, play their final games of the season Saturday. Chances are neither will be on top when their rivals finish.

Melin, with gains of 1,487 yards to show for nine games, faces the task of piling up enough yardage to stand off Bill Kilmer of UCLA, now fourth with 1,340 yards, who will have two games to play after Melin is all through.

If Melin should make it, Stephens probably will lose his passing lead right there. Stephens has completed 113 of 206 passes for 1,039 yards. Melin is second with 104 completions for 1,450 yards.

Other individual offense leaders are Bob Gaiters of New Mexico State and Dick Fitzsimmons of Denver in punting. Gaiters has run for 1,071 yards in eight games. Fitzsimmons has averaged 44.3 yards on 24 kicks.

Ed Dyas Voted Back of the Week

AUBURN, Ala. (AP) — The night before he set a new collegiate field goal record, Ed Dyas disappeared from the Auburn campus.

Spectators at a high school football game spotted him later in the evening surrounded by seven small boys he had rounded up and taken to the game as his guests.

That's typical of the studious pre-med student whose spectacular performance against Georgia last Saturday won him acclaim as the Associated Press' Back of the Week.

The 205-pound fullback from Mobile, Ala., kicked three field goals to give the Tigers a 9-6 victory over Georgia and establish a national record for the most field goals in a college career — 16.

Dyas has booted 12 of them this year, another collegiate record. He has kicked at least one in each of Auburn's eight games.

Despite his kicking accuracy, the mild-mannered gridiron hero, who turned 21 Friday, isn't essentially a field goal specialist. He has gain 393 yards rushing for a 5.2-yard average, and has scored two touchdowns.

Despite his success, Dyas is modest. When a mixup in records made it appear that he had broken the career field goal record earlier than he did, it was Dyas himself who corrected it.

Scholastically, he's as good as he is on the football field. His grade average is just shy of "A." He will complete his work in 3½ years instead of the usual four.

Conerly Doubtful Starter for Sunday

NEW YORK (AP)—Quarterbacks—the one he has to face and the one he may not have—are the bane of New York Giants Coach Jim Lee Howell today as he prepares his team for Sunday's crucial National Football League game here gainst Philadelphia.

The Giants trail the Eastern Conference-leading Eagles by a half game, and must play them again the following Sunday in Philadelphia. A double victory is almost a must if the Giants hope to win their third straight conference title.

The quarterback he must face is Norm Van Brocklin, the 11-year NFL veteran who has hustled the Eagles to six straight victories after an opening loss, later avenged, to Cleveland.

What worries Howell even more is the one he may not have—12-year veteran Charley Conerly, who twisted ligaments in his left knee in Sunday's 27-24 victory over Pittsburgh. Doctors were to determine later if Conerly might be fit to face the Eagles.

George Shaw will get the call if Conerly is unable to play.

13 Fatalities This Year in Football

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Thirteen players have received fatal injuries as a direct result of 1960 football competition, compared with 16 at this time last season.

So says the annual mid season report of Dr. Floyd R. Eastwood of Los Angeles State College, reporting for the American Football Coaches Association's Committee on Injuries and Fatalities.

Dr. Eastwood said Tuesday night that one reason for the decline may be the delay his committee experiences in receiving reports of injuries sustained in sandlot games. Five sandlot fatalities had occurred at this time last year, but only one has been reported so far in 1960.

Five football deaths last year were due to heat stroke, while two have been reported this season.

Brown Leads NFL With 694 Yards

NEW YORK (AP) — Jimmy Brown of Cleveland is in his accustomed spot—ground gaining leader of the National Football League.

The former Syracuse star enjoyed his best day of the season last Sunday when he clipped off 173 yards on 28 carries to boost his season's total to 694 yards on 123 carries for an average of 5.6 yards.

Jimmy Taylor of Green Bay, who led a week ago, has gained 661 yards on 143 attempts for a 4.6 average.

Green Bay's Paul Hornung needs only 39 points in five games to better the individual one-season scoring record. The former Notre Dame star has scored eight touchdowns, 25 successive extra points, and has booted 9 of 17 field goals for an even 100 points.

Viaduct Falling Apart Is Radel Advice to State

Structural disintegration of the Washington Avenue viaduct, which has been ordered razed by the Public Service Commission, was emphasized today by Mayor Edwin F. Radel in a letter to J. Burch McMorran, state public works superintendent.

Photographs showing cracks and crumbling sections of the 47-year-old railroad overpass, were forwarded with the letter.

The mayor said he realized that Kurt G. Rauer, state district engineer at Poughkeepsie, and John Mears, area resident engieer, were aware of conditions, but was concerned as to whether Superintendent McMorran is "fully aware of its condition."

An engineer in Rauer's office said Tuesday that district engineers were "getting ready" to prepare plans for razing the viaduct, The project also entails replacement of the narrow Esopus Creek bridge. The PSC order, issued Monday was announced yesterday.

The mayor noted that he had "personally inspected and taped almost every inch of this area" with the engineers. He therefore, knew that Rauer and Meara were aware of conditions" but he wanted to emphasize them through the information forwarded to the state superintendent. He stressed "the great difficulty in maintaining even a semblance of an adequate guard rail fence and lighting for this roadway."

Raymond & May Associates, city planning consultants, the mayor wrote, are also interested in the problem, which figures in comprehensive city planning. Removal of the structure, he said, "will truly be a Godsend to residents of the city, who have withstood its dangers for many recent years."

The letter asked that the city be kept informed as to progress of this "and other projects affecting the city proper." The mayor said he would be available for discussion of them.

Indict Teamster Over Bribe for Labor Peace

NEWARK, N. J. (AP)—Anthony (Tony) Provenzano has been indicted by a federal grand jury on a charge of extorting $17,100 in bribes to ensure labor peace.

Provenzano, international vice president of the Teamsters Union and head of the 13,000-member Local 506 of Hoboken, is accused of extorting payments from Dorn Transportation, Inc., of Rensselaer, N. Y., and its owner, Walter Dorn.

The indictment was handed up Tuesday to U. S. District Judge Richard Hartshorne.

Provenzano allegedly threatened economic injury to the trucking company unless it paid off. The company opened a terminal in Secaucus in January, 1952, and payments were allegedly made in installments from Jan. 1, 1952 to June 1, 1959.

Dorn testified last year before a Senate Rackets Committee in Washington that, in addition to the money he gave Provenzano, he paid former Hudson County Assistant Prosecutor Michael Communale $200 a month during a six-year period.

Provenzano advised him to do this, Dorn said at the time. Communale was later dismissed from office.

The federal grand jury began investigating the case after Dorn refused to testify in New Jersey because he had no immunity against prosecution here. He appeared in Washington last year under a writ of immunity.

Before the federal grand jury assumed jurisdiction, Hudson County Judge James Rosen dropped a Hudson County grand jury indictment against Provenzano because Dorn refused to come to New Jersey to testify.

Provenzano was recently re-elected to his Teamster post over a slate opposed to the leadership of Teamster International President James R. Hoffa. He is one of Hoffa's closest supporters.

Vatican Magazine Comments on Vote

VATICAN CITY (AP)—L'Osservatore Della Domenica, weekly magazine published at the Vatican, said today that the election of John F. Kennedy "eliminated a prejudice that had no justification juridically or morally."

The magazine said the election of a Roman Catholic to the presidency of the United States constituted a "victory for the American people rather than for Catholicism as such."

The comment on Kennedy's Catholicism was the first published here since the election.

The salary increase is part of a proposed $3,726,989 budget which is to be voted upon Nov. 28. There has been no opposition to the budget, which calls for a tax rate increase of $2.08 per $1,000 assessed valuation.

Hollywood News, Views

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — William Castle, never prone to understatement, says the gimmick in his latest scare epic is the best in the history of the theater.

This covers a lot of ground, since theater history spans from Sophocles to the Three Stooges. Yet Castle says his idea for "Homicidal" has never been tried by any of his artistic predecessors. Just what is it?

"Ah, I never reveal my gimmicks before the picture is released," said the movie maker.

Castle, a squared-off, wire-haired film veteran but no square, has made a career and tidy fortune of out-gimmicking his competitors.

"It started with 'Macabre,'" he related with relish. "I had no gimmick on the screen; the thing was the insurance policy on any patron who might be frightened to death."

He marched upward to "The House on Haunted Hill," for which he employed a skeleton sailing over the patrons' heads. Then came "The Tingler," which was literally so, the theater seats being wired for shock.

His latest accomplishment was "Thirteen Ghosts," which were visible via special spectacles but unseen by the naked eye.

"Columbia ordered only 1,600,000 of the glasses, which I told them was not enough," said Castle triumphantly. "The final order will be 13 million."

Now comes "Homicidal" with his gimmick supreme. It is his most ambitious effort to date — 'Imagine, 20 shooting days! I've only had 10 or 11 before."

Despite the sneers of critics, Castle has compounded an amazing record.

"The other pictures have cost a total of $750,000," he declared. They will make a gross profit of $8 million."

Air Service to End

WASHINGTON (AP) — Eastern Air Lines service to Malone, N. Y., will be deleted if no objections are raised, the Civil Aeronautics Board says. The board ruled tentatively on the deletion Tuesday and set a 15-day period for the filing of objections, which would be evaluated at a hearing. Litttle traffic was given as the reason for the deletion.

Castro Visits Base

HAVANA (AP) — Prime Minister Fidel Castro has told workers from the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo Bay that possession of this installation in Eastern Cuba is "a problem of law, not of force."

Government-controlled newspapers reported Castro's speech today. He made it Sunday night in Guantanamo City at a high school about 20 miles from the main entrance of the base.

This was Castro's first visit to the Guantanamo area since his government first raised the question of Washington surrendering the big base, leased from Cuba by treaty early in the century.

Report 2 Cuban Judges Now in Foreign Offices

HAVANA (AP) — The president and another member of Cuba's Supreme Court have taken asylum in foreign embassies, authoritative sources report.

The sources said Dr. Emilio Menendez, court president, took asylum Tuesday in the Argentine Embassy and Jose Morell Romero, a court member, sought refuge at the Mexican Embassy.

Neither report was confirmed officially.

Dr. Menendez was appointed president of Cuba's highest court last December by Prime Minister Fidel Castro. Both Dr. Menendez and Romero held high positions in the judiciary under dictator Fulgencio Batista.

Legal circles have been buzzing with rumors that the Castro government plans a sweeping reorganization of the judicial system to make it conform to "the revolutionary process."

Nixon Gains 18,248 in Day

Kennedy's Lead Now Reduced to 239,351

WASHINGTON (AP)—California absentee ballots continued to help Richard M. Nixon whittle at the small lead today of President-elect John F. Kennedy in the national popular vote.

With 1,587 of the nation's 166,065 precincts missing and thousands of absentee ballots uncounted Kennedy had a lead of 239,351 votes in the counting of the Nov. 8 election. Nixon had cut the lead by 18,248 votes in 24 hours.

The count: Kennedy 33,796,375, Nixon 33,557,024.

13,405 Calif. Edge

This gave Kennedy 50.18 per cent and Nixon 49.82 per cent of the 67,353,399 votes counted.

With officials counting absentee ballots in California, Nixon had cut the Kennedy lead there to 13,405 votes. Kennedy had 3,166,612 votes and Nixon had 3,153,207 votes.

Most of the nation's unreported precincts come from areas in the South and West where the voting was so one-sided that unofficial counting was halted.

These include Alabama, Georgia, and Arkansas, which voted for Kennedy, and North Dakota, and South Dakota, which voted for Nixon.

In the House of Representatives, Democrats evidently won three of the four final undecided contests. A Republican led in the fourth race.

May Finish This Week

The Republican, John Stender, led incumbent Democrat Don Magnuson by 97 votes in Washington. The count may be finished this week.

In complete returns, Democrats Rep. Morgan Moulder won reelection by 381 votes in Missouri, M. Blane Peterson won by 68 votes in Utah, and Frank W. Burke won by 856 votes in Kentucky. In all three cases, the Republicans, apparent losers, have challenged the result or asked for a recount.

Magnetic Storm Worst in Years

WASHINGTON (AP)—A worldwide magnetic storm — the most severe in at least 10 years—has disrupted short-wave radio communications for several days and is still continuing, a government scientist said today.

Such storms are caused by disturbances on the surface of the sun, commonly called sunspots.

James Weldon, head of the world warning agency of the National Bureau of Standards, said the storm has been particularly intense on the north Atlantic path of radio communications, the one linking New York, London, Washington and Paris.

But it also has affected radio transmissions across the Pacific, he said.

Weldon said the storm reached a peak of 268 on "a scale" used to rate severity. Anything over 50 on this scale is considered a major magnetic storm. The 268 figure was measured at a government magnetic observatory near Washington, and occurred on Nov. 13.

Weldon said the storm died down considerably after that, but surged up again Tuesday night.

New Front Seen In Cold War on African Freedom

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP) — Independence for African colonial territories has opened a new front in the cold war, Lynn Heinzerling, Associated Press Foreign Correspondent, said today.

Addressing The Associated Press Managing Editor's Association's annual convention Heinzerling, who recently returned from the Congo, said Africa will become increasingly important in international relations as more territories gain freedom and the Soviets are offered more opportunities of opening up diplomatic relations in Africa and installing their familiar espionage and propaganda networks.

"The Russians suffered a serious and damaging defeat in the Congo, but it is not the end of the Soviet effort in the Congo and other areas of this huge African power vacuum," Heinzerling said.

"The defeat was largely due to Russian clumsiness and their unfamiliarity with African political and social customs, particularly the strong tribal influence," he said.

Heinzerling was one of a panel of three AP correspondents who discussed Communist world pressures at the opening session of the APME convention. The other two were Relman Morin and William L. Ryan.

The Russians, Heinzerling said, "poured large sums of money into Patrice Lumumba's political campaign and backed him to the hilt, apparently failing to recognize that no Congolese political leader has the national stature to enforce unity on the divergent tribal, political and economic forces in the Congo.

"When Lumumba's bubble collapsed, there was no other leader the Russians could turn to as an alternate. He was the only political leader of any stature willing to play with the Russians."

Concert Appreciated

November 16, 1960

Editor, The Freeman:

Monday evening my wife and I attended the first concert of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic Orchestra, an experience I wish everyone in the Hudson Valley could have had.

The orchestra, all residents of the Mid-Hudson Valley, surely did themeselves proud and I am as equally proud that such a musical organization has come from this area.

The guest pianist, Claudio Arrau was perfection personified. We in the Hudson Valley are mighty lucky to have had such a brilliant artist in our midst.

The Hudson Valley Choral Group hit the heights of perfection with the final number, Polovetsian Dances and Chorus from "Prince Igor."

The suberb performances of the philharmonic orchestra and guest artist were enthusiastically received by the near capacity audience. The enthusiasm with which they responded accentuated the lack of expression by a very small minority among the music lovers, who failed to show the slightest signs of appreciation. Here excellent musicians, our next door neighbors so to speak, presented a concert that in my estimation was the nearest thing to the "Tanglewood Concerts" that the people in this area can hear.

This cultural effort in our area should be commended and encouraged as a giant step forward—not discouraged by the apathetic response of the unfeeling concert-goer.

At future concerts; whether it is the Community Concerts, the Hudson Valley Philharonic Society, etc., it would be profoundly appreciated by the artists and the audience if everyone in attendance joined wholeheartedly in expressing approval of the artistry displayed or for the effort shown by the performers.

Sincerely,
WARREN W. SIMMONS

Predicts Last Rebels Will Be Taken Today

GUATEMALA CITY (AP) — Guatemalan President Miguel Ydigoras predicted Tuesday night that the last rebel stronghold at Puerto Barrios would be taken today.

"These traitors to the fatherland are receiving aid from abroad," the president charged in a television broadcast.

"They are receiving airplanes from Castro (Cuba's Prime Minister Fidel Castro) loaded with ammunition of all sorts to kill Guatemalans.

Ydigoras has insisted since the rebellion broke out Sunday that it was being helped by Cuba. Castro's government issued denials.

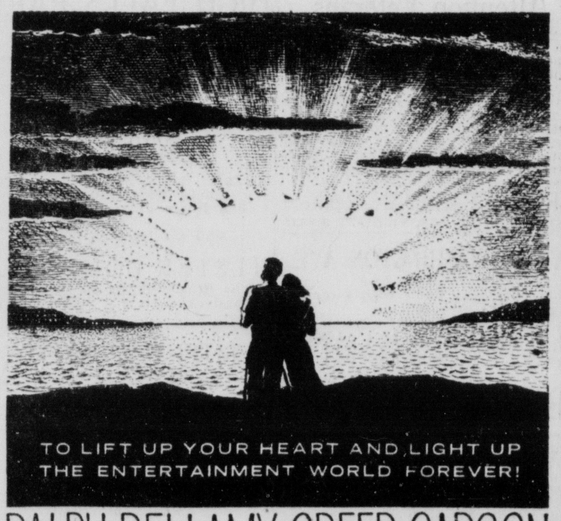

matter of FACT

A clever physician has a bit of the detective in him. On sight, he can tell an amazing number of things about people. Such a doctor was Joseph Bell, who used to astound his medical school classes with his penetrating diagnoses. Among Dr. Bell's students was Arthur Conan Doyle, who never forgot him. When Doyle became an author, he recalled Dr. Bell —and created the master detective, Sherlock Holmes.

Silence Is Mood in Louisiana

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—A silent reception greeted three Negro first graders today when they arrived at school as the New Orleans public school integration entered its third day.

Unlike the first two days of the integration dispute, only a few of spectators turned out at McDonogh No. 19, one of the two all-white schools integrated by federal court order.

Only Two Enter School

There were no boos, yells or taunts.

The number of white school children attending McDonogh fell off. Only two were seen entering the school — its normal enrollment 467—when the bell rang.

Louisiana legislators Tuesday urged white parents to keep their children away from the integrated schools.

But one mile away from the silent school 50 cars filled with truant teen-agers carrying signs paraded along streets near the industrial canal.

Police cut off the caravan at the canal.

Some signs bore the insignia "KKK." Youths clung to the sides of the cars. Car horns sounded a nearly constant blare of noise.

Crowd Under 200

At William Frantz school, the one Negro girl showed up late, nearly at 9:30 a.m. The crowd that watched four U.S. marshals escort her into the school was smaller, probably under 200.

Two white children carried an effigy of a little Negro girl through the crowd. There were cheers.

Police escorted the two children a block away from the school before the Negro first-grader arrived.

There were cheers for a mother withdrawing her white child from the school, jeers and taunts of "nigger-lover" for parents who brought their child to school.

Impeachment of a federal judge who ordered the integration was reported under discussion as the lawmakers ended a 12-day special session at Baton Rouge in early morning hours.

Rare Session Called

A rare closed session was called today to start a new special 30-day meeting called by Gov. Jimmie H. Davis.

Both houses approved a resolution urging a boycott of the integrated schools. The House approved it 93-2 and it passed the Senate 34-0.

An estimated 10,000 white pupils stayed away from city schools Tuesday, the second day of efforts to integrate two local schools. Many absentees took part in rowdy demonstrations resulting in 11 arrests, all white persons.

Louisiana's U. S. senators and congressmen were asked to attend the closed session and help halt federal intervention.

The resolution calling for their appearance was aimed at U. S. Dist. Judge J. Skelly Wright, who issued the integration order and thwarted segregation acts of legislators with restraining orders.

Impeachment Studied

An informant who asked not to be identified, said the question of asking Louisiana's congressional delegation to institute impeachment proceedings against Wright is one of the moves under consideration.

Segregation leader John Garrett called for Wright's arrest at a meeting of the Citizens Council Tuesday night. Garrett, chairman of the joint legislative committee on segregation, also called for the arrest of U. S. marshals who escorted four Negro girls to school Tuesday.

Garrett recommended full interposition, a legal maneuver through which the legislature would put state sovereignty between the federal government and the people to block integration.

6,000 Shout Approval

Some 6,000 persons attending the meeting of the council, a secregationist group, shouted approval.

Mounted police held shouting demonstrators in check as four 6-year-old Negro girls entered the two white elementary schools Tuesday. Three of the girls spent the day at McDonogh 19, school, which was ringed with 125 patrolmen and mounted officers. School officials reported only 20 of the 467 students enrolled were in school.

Vote on Merger Of Banks Due Friday, Dec. 16

The shareholders meeting called by the State of New York National Bank to consider approval of a proposed plan for consolidation of that bank and The Huguenot National Bank of New Paltz, will be held Friday, Dec. 16, at 11 a. m. at the banking house on Wall Street.

A legal notice of the meeting appears in The Freeman today.

The bank officials are awaiting final approval of the consolidation plan from the Comptroller of Currency at Washington, D. C. In addition to ratification of the consolidation plan, other matters pertinent to the proposed consolidation will be transacted at the meeting in December.

Chazy Man Heads N.Y. Farm Bureau

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP) — Donald Green of Chazy was re-elected president of the New York Farm Bureau today at the group's 45th convention.

William Bensley of Springville was re-elected vice president. More than 1,000 delegates attended the three-day meeting.

Milton Roy of Horseheads was named to the board of directors.

Resolutions were to be considered at the closing session this afternoon.

Awards were presented to 10 counties Tuesday night for outstanding achievement. They were Allegheny, Cayuga, Chautauqua, Delaware, Onondaga, Ontario, Orange, Otsego, Schuyler and Steuben.

Tobin Gives Views On Commuter Problem

NEW YORK (AP)—Austin J. Tobin, executive director of the Port of New York Authority, says the commuter problem cannot be solved by the creation of "far-flung new rail systems."

Such systems, "always prohibitively costly, cannot be supported by traffic demand, present or future," Tobin told a meeting of the American Bridge, Tunnel and Turnpike Association Tuesday.

Tobin said he favored maintaining and improving existing rail commuter services.

He said his bistate agency was continuing its studies toward the possible acquisition of the bankrupt Hudson & Manhattan Railroad and was hopeful that the New York and New Jersey legislatures will enact the necessary legislation.

Speed Up Cases, Grumet Advises

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—District attorneys should speed up prosecutions of those indicted through investigations of the State Investigation Commission, and police departments must improve their efficiency, the commission says.

Commission officials discussed crime enforcement and police methods at a closed meeting Tuesday with approximately 100 law enforcement officials from 13 counties in Central New York.

Jacob Grumet, commission chairman, told a reporter later that the commission had recommended that police "keep close tabs on all gambling figures, especially those connected with the Apalachin meeting."

He referred to the meeting of 60 or more top crime figures and friends at the home of the late Joseph Barbara at Apalachin, near Binghamton, Nov. 14, 1957.

Grumet said he recommended also that police departments work to improve their efficiency, and urged closer cooperation between police agencies covering the same areas.

It was reported authoritatively that the commission voiced some complaints about prosecutions and investigations, particularly as they related to commission activities. County prosecutors were asked to speed up what the commission considered a backlog of cases.

Grumet said also the commission was ready to assist local police departments if needed. He added, however, that most criminal cases involved "local matter" to be handled by local officials.

The meeting was the first of seven to be held throughout the state. Grumet described the session as "helpful."
